GLANDS, RADIO and crossword puzzles occupy this age. A gland fluid, taken from the base of the brain in animals, of course, is to be used as a restorative for human beings.

Dr. H. M. Evans, distinguished scientist, of the University of California, who calls his discovery "vitamin X," has developed an extract of the pituitary gland with which animals can be made to grow to gigantic size.

H. G. WELLS foresaw that in one of his novels, as Jules Verne foresaw other wonders. Science is just beginning to understand that most wonderful of all machines, the living body, "fearfully and wonderfully made."

RELIGIOUS MEN and women in India are agitated because cold-blooded Christians, or their agents, are slaughtering India's thousands of sacred monkeys, for the sake of their glands, the latter being transplanted in the bodies of aged, weak humans.

THE SACRED MONKEYS are vanishing rapidly, and natives warn the government that the gods—monkey gods, presumably will have vengeance on India.

IT IS a strange situation. Consider that the glands of a sacred monkey might become, in an almost literal sense, the physical father of some human white child, born to a rejuvenated old man.

That thought would annoy Bryan, as much as it would surprise Darwin.

A RADIO EXPERT in Paris "picked up" in one day the broadcasting on five different continents. He got Mesopotamia in Asia, Canada in America, England in Europe, Pelmerston in New Zealand, and Oran in Africa.

WHEN THE GREAT day comes, and the Four Angels, as described in the Bible, lift up their voices, at the four corners of the earth, they will be heard by radio listeners on the other side of the world before they are heard by those a quarter of a mile away. That is a miracle.

IN BUDAPEST, Lieutenant Lederer, arrested for murder, confesses that he hanged fifteen persons. He adds: "I always put on white gloves for the ceremony, and found my greatest pleasure in the hangings."

At that we all shudder, and wonder how any monster could actually enjoy hanging his fellow men.

AND YET, not long ago, English merchants, on their knees, outside Parliament, begged that there might be fewer sets of gallows in their small town. The King, bishop, Lord of the Manor and the merchants all had their gallows and separate hangmen. The merchants protested that too many men were being hanged. But nobody was willing to give up his gallows, or the right to hang his fellows.

Now a fine estate, for sale with gallows and the right to hang men on it, would not attract buyers. Refined families would avoid it.

WHEAT WENT above two dollars a bushel in Chicago on Tuesday. Gentlemen recently selling short are now thinking hard.

Early in the Coolidge campaign, when wheat was below $1.20, this column predicted that the price would rise steadily above $1.50, and help to elect Coolidge. That happened, with a big margin to share in votes and in the price of wheat.

WALL STREET was not quite so cheerful yesterday. There was nothing much the matter, but money for gambling went up to 3½ per cent., and brokers had to have a reason.

Some of them settled on Secretary Hughes' resignation. Any explanation is better than none, although why Mr. Hughes' departure should make stocks less valuable the ordinary lamb does not know.

There may be some bad news

FIGHT $10,000 FIRE ON LINER; 25 FLEE ANOTHER BLAZE

One fireman was badly injured, twenty-five persons were driven to the street, and a large freight steamer was threatened with destruction in three serious fires in Brookline, East Boston and Boston today. The loss is estimated at $15,000.

While twenty-two men, women and children slept in two tenements 216 rear, Havre street, East Boston, rats chewed into a box of matches in the kitchen of the rear tenement. They ignited the matches and the flames soon spread through the kitchen.

Inmates were awakened by smoke and rushed to the street, clad only in night clothing. The flames spread quickly to the three-story wooden tenement in front and inmates there were forced to flee for their lives. For a time it looked as though several more houses in the thickly congested tenement district were doomed.

Those driven out included: Mr. and Mrs. William Colity and six children, Gertrude, William, George,

LIGHTEN SUBMARINE TO AID IN SALVAGE

Chatham, Jan. 15.—Men from coast guard cutters and navy tugs have started removing all torpedoes, gasoline, oil and other articles of weight from the U. S. Submarine S-19 which is still aground on a sandbar off Nauset Beach.

Every extra ounce of weight is being removed with the hope that the vessel may be pulled off the bar late today. The personal effects of the sailors aboard the submarine were removed, and part of the crew was ordered back to Boston aboard a tug.

For three hours today the naval tug Mojave hauled at the submarine without moving it an inch. Special hoisting machinery is on the way from New London on another naval

FULLER OPENS WAR UPON AUTO THIEVES

As the first move in a campaign to rid the State of automobile thieves, Governor Alvan T. Fuller today urged Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin and Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred F. Foote to collaborate and exchange information.

It was at first believed both officials were summoned by the Governor for the beginning of an exhaustive probe of Goodwin's recent charges that members of the State police are protecting automobile thieves.

At the conclusion of the conference Governor Fuller stated:

"Registrar Goodwin came to see me of his own initiative. He felt

BAN JOHNSON ASKS U. S. RULE BASEBALL

"Ban" Johnson, president of the American League, still smarting under the rebuke administered him by the club owners at the recent annual meeting of the league at Chicago, is once more on the warpath after Commissioner Landis' scalp.

This time he has apparently made up his mind to take the chance of being "fired" to regain the czar-like power he held in the game before the entrance of Landis.

Johnson, according to dispatches from New York, is now appearing in the role of sponsor for a movement that is under way to petition Congress for governmental regulation.

Plucky Woman Foils Bandit; Slams Door in His Face

DARES DEATH AS SHE DEFIES ROBBER

Photo-diagram shows how Mrs. Louis Ross of No. 953 Massachusetts avenue, Roxbury, risked death by slamming door on bandit. The latter had appeared in the doorway with leveled gun. As the door banged in his face he fired. The shot pierced a panel, sang past Mrs. Ross' head and dug deep into a wall across the room. The bandit fled after firing. Mrs. Ross was unhurt. Dotted line shows course of bullet. Inset is Mrs. Ross.

"Stand aside!" was the gruff command of a masked bandit as he brushed his way past Louis Ross, keeper of a small store at No. 953 Massachusetts avenue, Roxbury.

"Give me your money and be quick about it," was the next command of the bandit, addressed this time to Mrs. Ross who was at work in the living quarters of the family in the rear of the store.

Mrs. Ross screamed as she saw the masked man pointing a revolver at her head. She slammed the door in his face. As she did the bandit fired. A bullet ploughed through the door and imbedded itself in the wall just behind where Mrs. Ross was standing. Then the intruder vanished.

Mrs. Ross told the police the bandit was apparently not more than 22 years old. He wore a brown hat and a brown overcoat. Ross confirms his wife's description of the intruder. He says the bandit worked swiftly when he entered the store, apparently sensing that whatever money there was in the store was in Mrs. Ross' possession.

All the facts, documents and information here set forth have been gathered by Universal Service's famous European correspondent, C. F. BANDIT CHAPMAN GETS $10,000 MORE

Gerald Chapman, leader of the bandit gang which robbed the Randolph Savings Bank of $40,000 and who escaped from the Atlanta penitentiary, where he was serving a terms for mail robbery, was positively identified today as the lone gunman who held up a Long Island, N. Y., train Tuesday and escaped with $10,000.

Gerald Chapman.

The identification was made by John T. Green, mail clerk of the train which Chapman boarded. Green picked Chapman's picture from the rouges' gallery at police headquarters. He said he was positive of the identification.

Chapman is one of the most notorious robbers at large in the country. He is a desperate character, unhesitating in his use of a gun.

Since his escape from the Atlanta penitentiary several holdups have been attributed to him. He was reported to have had a part in the fatal shooting of Patrolman James Skelly at New Britain, Ct., on October 12, but his connection with this case was later disproved.

His robbery of the Randolph Savings Bank was one of the most daring ever perpetrated in this State.

TECH STUDENT DIES BY ELECTROCUTION

Milton Silva, 21 years old, of New Bedford, a co-operative student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was electrocuted today at the River Works plant of the General Electric Company in Lynn.

Silva, who had been doing test work at one of the big power transformers, inadvertently touched a live wire.

More than 2,300 volts passed through his body.

Despite this terrific charge, he remained alive, although unconscious, for more than two hours, during which physicians tried every known means to restore him to life.

STOUT-HEARTED SAILORS AND COAST GUARDS BATTLE RELENTLESS ODDS

Lieutenant F. C. Martin and his thirty-seven men, many of them New England boys, "stuck to the ship" true to navy tradition, from Monday night until they were ordered, late last night by the Navy Department, to abandon the submarine S-19. With breakers pounding their frail craft, they refused earlier offers of the Coast Guard to take them off to the bleak Cape Cod shore. Grizzled Cape Codders of the Nauset Beach Coast Guard Station thrice fought their way to the side of the stranded craft. Once the entire crew was plunged into the sea when their life-boat capsized. Captain Abbott Walker, sixty years old, in command of the life-savers, narrowly escaped death twice in twenty-four hours.

wrecking tug. Two tugs are to pull in tandem late today.

With the thirty-eight members of the crew of the submarine safe aboard the navy tug Wandank, all efforts to pull the submarine off the sandbar at high tide early today failed.

A heavy steel hawser leading from the nose of the submarine, was hitched to the stern of the navy tug Resolute. Then the Wandank, also a heavy ocean-going tug, was hitched to the Resolute.

LINES DRAWN TAUT.

The tide was high and the seas were unusually calm when the command "full speed ahead" was flashed the tugs from the mast light of the cutter Tampa, a mile distant.

The steel hawser became taut as a bow string. The sea was churned into miniature geysers of white at the stern of each of the panting tugs.

The Resolute and the Wandank might as well have been trying to drag the rock of Gibraltar into the middle of the Mediterranean.

Should the efforts today prove unavailing, it is likely the under sea craft will be dismantled, as far as possible and the shell will then be allowed to remain where she lies—in a graveyard that already has claimed scores of proud ships.

INQUIRY TO BE HELD.

A portion of the crew of the submarine, now on the Wandank, will be brought to the Boston Navy Yard while others will be taken to New London. The officers will be called upon within the near future to testify before a board of naval inquiry and tell all the details that preceded their being driven on the sandbar by the northeast gale on early Tuesday morning.

MOVIE CENSOR CHARGES ACID ATTACK

Washington, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Evelyn Frances Snow of Mount Vernon, O., told the national motion picture conference here today that she lost her job as chairman of the Ohio Board of Censors, because she refused to pass a picture for which she had been offered a trip to Europe and a "fine automobile."

Motio npicture officials, she said, came "crawling on their knees to me to permit the showing of an obscene film," and money offers were made in efforts to obtain approval of pictures that were "highly immoral."

At one time, she declared, a "deadly acid" was placed in her office which "inflicted scars on me that I will carry to my grave."

Mrs. Snow's speech was in reply to one delivered by Mrs. Robbins Gilman, assistant secretary of the Women's Co-operative Alliance of Minneapolis, in which she charged censorship does not accomplish the desired object.

MISERABLE DRUNKARDS, in Atlantic City, complain to the police that their hands were burned by men from whom they bought whiskey. To get rid of them and wake them up, after the poisonous stuff had made them unconscious, the saloon keepers dropped red hot coins into the palms of the sleepers' hands.

IF THE INJURED men could realize what the drink sellers do to their insides, with the bootleg whiskey they sell, they would worry less about a burned hand. You can cure that.

IT IS PROPOSED to create an "airport" for New York by roofing over the yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Temporary landing and leaving places for fliers might thus be provided in many cities. That ought to be done. Automobile roads, without grade crossings, could also be provided, making a roadway above railroad tracks running out through city suburbs. Railroads should be properly compensated, of course.

MAKESHIFT airports will soon be outgrown, however. Before you die, in every big city, the week-end will see thousands of flying "club cars," each with its load of passengers, flying off to mountains or seaside, in Summer; to Florida, California, etc., in Winter.

In ten years Florida will be as near New York city as Atlantic City is now.

BATTLE $10,000 FIRE ON SHIP AT HUB PIER

Alice, Rita and Anna; Mr. and Mrs. William Irwin and family of five children; Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neil and family of three children and Mrs. Ruth Robinson and daughter Ruth.

While fighting the flames Fireman Robert Quirk of Ladder 2 chopped off two of his toes.

Shortly after this fire was put out a blaze, starting from undetermined cause, was discovered in the home of Richard Floyd, chairman of the Brookline Republican town committee, at No. 1358 Beacon street, Brookline. Floyd, in his bare feet and pajamas, rushed across the street through the snow and rang in the alarm. He dashed back and assisted his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Floyd, from the burning building. The flames were confined to the kitchen and loss was set at $1,000.

Shortly after seven o'clock the Clyde line freight steamer Oneida came into port from Jacksonville, Fla., with a cargo of Southern pine and cotton. She tied up at Lewis wharf. When the hatches were removed preparatory to unloading a fire was discovered in hold No. 3. Land apparatus and fireboats were called.

The fire was burning briskly in the inflammable cargo, and soon smoke came from hold No. 4. After a two-hour fight the flames were extinguished. Loss was estimated at $10,000.

It is believed that a spark smouldered in a bale of cotton all the way from Florida and had just been fanned into flames within the last few hours.

Our Fire Department

The controversy over the alleged inefficiency of the Boston Fire Department will be helpful if it results in remedial action.

Heated denials of the Grand Jury's charges do not alter the fact that the Scobey Hospital fire was disastrous.

An investigation should be made to determine the blame and the fault be remedied.

The time to stop a fire is when it starts.

A properly equipped and organized fire department should be able to check any blaze, except under abnormal conditions.

Boston does not want and cannot afford conflagrations such as those that visited it in '72 and also San Francisco and Chicago.

They are wasteful of life and money and are a serious detriment to business.

Nothing should be overlooked which would help to prevent a calamity of that kind in Boston.

On the fire department, even more than the police, depend the lives and property of our citizens.

By all means let us have an investigation and eliminate whatever faults there may be.

CURLEY TO ASK MODERN FIRE BOXES

"The Boston fire department is efficient and on the job. Spend $125,000 for a new fire alarm system and fire protection in the Hub will be equal to that given any community in the country."

This is the answer of Mayor Curley to the report of the Suffolk county grand jury which severely criticised the department, following an investigation of the fire at the Scobey hospital, in which a patient was burned to death.

The Mayor lost little time in rushing to the defence of the fire department.

After declaring that firemen who first responded to the hospital fire did not lose an instant in entering the burning building and making rescues, and denying a water plug was frozen and delayed the firemen, the Mayor declares:

"The real cause of the loss of a human life at the Scobey Hospital fire was unquestionably due to a lack of knowledge on the part of the individual assigned to ring in the alarm. This lack of knowledge may in part be traced to the excitement due to the fire, and it is this weakness of the fire system that should be overcome, and at once. The present fire alarm box system has been in operation for a period of some 40 years. It should be changed at once. A fool-proof box should be substituted for the present type of box.

"To install the type of box which on turning the handle will immediately give the alarm would represent an expenditure of approximately $125,000. This expenditure I propose to include in the budget for 1925.

"FAMOUS" DICE TABLE AND 61 TAKEN IN RAID

New York, Jan. 15.—An ancient dice table, scarred with the shield numbers of at least 100 raiding policemen and a visitor at police headquarters on an average of once a week for the past year, was one of the chief prizes captured by police in a raid on a house off Broadway early today. With the table went sixty-one men charged with disorderly conduct while engaged in a game of dice.

The raid took place under a huge crystal chandelier in a room that was once the grand ball room of a well known cabaret.

Tom Foley Is Dead

New York, Jan. 15.—Thomas F. Foley, veteran Tammany Hall leader and one of the political sponsors of Governor Alfred E. Smith, died at the Rockefeller Institute today of pneumonia.

SAFE HOSPITALS SOUGHT IN REPORT

Drastic changes in the State fire laws with particular reference to hospitals and public buildings are proposed to the Legislature in a report submitted today by a special investigating committee.

The investigators also recommend the scrapping of the entire code relating to fire prevention and the substituting of uniform State-wide regulations.

The commission deems it imperative that all future hospitals shall be constructed of fireproof material, and that those now in existence, which are not considered fireproof, be compelled to install sprinklers, fire escapes and fire doors of the self-closing type.

In addition to this all hospitals would be obliged to register and secure a license from the State Public Health Department with the understanding that no license be granted until a certificate of occupancy has been issued by the building inspection of the Departmen of Public Safety.

Serious consideration is urged of the necessity of ordering automatic sprinklers in schoolhouse basements, town halls, all public institutions, places of amusement and in all buildings in which people assemble in large numbers.

Under the proposed uniform law, the State fire marshal would be given wide powers including the right to order the removal of obstacles which interfere with fire exits. The fire marshal would also be authorized to order fire drills in theatres and private and public schools.

Failure to install sprinklers would subject the owner to a fine of $1,000.

R. I. SENATE GETS FIRST BATCH OF APPOINTMENTS

Providence, Jan. 15.—Governor Pothier sent to the Senate his first batch of appointments. There are sixty selections, many of them being reappointments to post for which ex-Governor William S. Flynn sent nominations to the Senate last year, but which were not confirmed.

Among the reappointments are those of Chairman William C. Bliss to his post on the Public Utilities Booard for a term of five years, ending January 30, 1930. Zenas W. Bliss, chairman of the Tax Commissioners, is also reappointed for a term of five years.

The Senate adopted the rules that will govern its procedure during the next two years, after considerable debate.

BAN JOHNSON FOR U. S. RULE IN BASEBALL

tion of baseball by a commission to be appointed by the President.

The petition, now being circulated in New York, is signed by Joseph A. Collier of Cleveland and attached to it is a letter from Johnson in which he endorses the bill and agrees that baseball is in a condition that rdequires governmental supervision.

The bill would have each club, manager, player, coach and umpire licensed, would prohibit sales between two league clubs unless all other clubs in the circuit agreed; would prevent a man or a group of men owning more than one big league franchise; would have all players receive the same salary according to length of service in the game; would ban "throwing games," gambling on games and playing "pools" in connection with games and would appoint a federal commission of three to see that the laws were enforced although they would have nothing to do with the actual conducting of the leagues and would have its office somewhere far removed from Washington to be free of political atmosphere.

If Johnson is connected with this affair as the letter on the petition tends to prove, he will in the near future be forced to resign as head of the American League or else another baseball war between the big leagues will begin.

To avert an open break with Landis, the American League club owners were forced, some say against their will, to publicly reprimand Johnson at the Chicago meeting and threaten to "drop" him if he had anything to say about bad features in the game in the future.

He certainly has "called their bluff" if he has become identified with his campaign and has forced them to either back him up or give in once again to Landis, whom, it may be sure, will not fail to bring the matter up, observers believe.

Local baseball magnates said today, however, that they do not believe that Johnson was knowingly connected with this attempt to have the game put under Federal control.

OFFICERS REFUSE TO TALK.

Collier, who signs this petition and now claims Cleveland as his home, it will be remembered, was around Boston a few years ago and framed a bill which he intended to present to the Massachusetts Legislature calling for the licensing of ball players. His movement was not supported and he suddenly disappeared from town.

From time to time for the past several years, it was reported today, Collier has drawn bills to remedy supposed evils in baseball, none of which he succeeded in having enacted.

It is the opinion of Boston baseball men that sometime in the past he may have drawn up some measure of a more or less constructive nature and at that time obtained Johnson's approval which he is now making public.

Baseball men, however, admit that if Johnson is connected in any way with this latest movement it almost certainly means more trouble between the American League and Landis.

ROCKEFELLER ESTATE OPENED TO TRAPPERS

Augusta, Me., Jan. 15.—A decision was rendered by the Department of Inland Fisheries and Game opening land at Seal Harbor, on Mount Desert Island, owned by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and land in the vicinity of the Mount Kineo House at Kineo to beaver trapping until February 28 of this year.

This action was taken because of complaints received at the department that these animals were damaging property.

Somerville Replaces Entire Unit With New Officers Today

The entire liquor squad of the Somerville police department was suddenly and unexpectedly relieved from duty at rollcall today by Chief of Police Charles A. Kendall.

A new liquor squad was assigned to duty, while the members of the ousted squad who have been on liquor seizure duty for more than two years, were ordered back to "pounding" beats in uniform.

SILENT ON SHIFT.

Not the slightest information had been given out in advance concerning the drastic shakeup and the only reason Chief Kendall would give for the change was the laconic announcement that it was "for the good of the service."

The dismissal of the old squad followed a few hours after the squad completed one of its most important raids in an exclusive residential section of Somerville, where a large amount of liquor was seized.

Sergeant William G. Kenney, a street sergeant for ten years, was named head of the new squad, replacing Sergeant James M. Lynch, who is placed on day street duty.

GET NIGHT DUTY.

The other members of the new squad are Patrolmen Allien S. Burns and James A. Fitzpatrick and Reserve Offficer Joseph P. Blake.

The old members relieved are Patrolman Charles F. Lacey, a member of the squad for three years, who was ordered to a night beat in the Winter Hill section, and Reserve Officers John J. Smith and Dennis F. Kearney, both ordered to night reserve duty.

MAYOR BEHIND MOVE.

While the order ousting the old squad and naming the new squad was signed by Chief Kendall, and the name of Mayor John M. Webster does not officially appear in the shakeup, it is understood that the change was made by the chief at the direction of the mayor.

Members of the police department are at a loss to explain the unexpected action, as the liquor squad has been active at all times in Somerville, and has made a number of raids each month.

At the time the first squad was appointed three years ago the Mayor announced the personnel would be changed from time to time, but no changes were made until today.

SLEMP TO QUIT AS COOLIDGE SECRETARY

Washington, Jan. 15.—C. Bascom Slemp will retire March 4 as Secretary to President Coolidge and be succeeded by Representative Everett Sanders of Indiana.

The decision of Mr. Slemp, who has been secretary to Mr. Coolidge since he entered the White House, became known today, after he had returned from a trip to New York.

Representative Sanders will retire from the House March 4, not having been a candidate for re-election. He was director of the Republican National Committee's speakers' bureau during the campaign and is a member of the House steering committee.

Mr. Slemp's decision to retire was due to several factors, including a desire to return to the direction of his extensive business interests.

DOUBT REPORT THAT COSGRAVE HAS QUIT

Dublin, Jan. 15 (A.P.)—Members of the Free State Ministry and friends of the executive council today discounted the rumor published abroad of his resignation. Until asked about it they had not heard of any such report.

President Cosgrave, it was stated, is returning soon from France, where he went to recuperate from an illness, and is to meet the Free State Parliament on February 3.

Paris, Jan. 15 (A.P.)—William T. Cosgrave left Paris today.

"I am going back with more optimism than ever to carry out the work of the government of Ireland," said Cosgrave.

PLANS REWARD IN DEATH OF NEWPORT, R. I. BOY

Newport, R. I., Jan. 15.—While local police are endeavoring to find the murderer of Leon Rose, found dead in the rear of a storehouse in the local freight yard, the boy's parents insist there has been no murder. They are convinced their son was killed accidentally by falling from a locomotive on which they believe he was stealing a ride. Mayor Sullivan is to offer a reward for information leading to the solution of the mystery.

A paper that goes into the home. Dependable, fearless, entertaining and educational.

Girl, 16, Who Slew Mother Kept "Diary of Love"

LED LIFE OF 'KISSES AND JAZZ'

Admits Shooting Parent When Told to Quit Men Friends and Get a Job

> "Hold me in your arms and press your lips to mine;
> They'll meet with your charms and waltz this waltz divine.
> Nothing in the world could ever equal this.
> Life is filled with sunshine in a perfect kiss."

San Francisco, Jan. 15.—Dorothy Ellingson, whose sixteen years' of life were crowded with kisses, liquor and jazz, wrote the above verse, her favorite, in the little diary she kept.

Then she shot and killed her mother.

The girl was arrested today in a rooming house after a two-day search by the police which followed the discovery of Mrs. Ellingson's body.

Defiant at first, under their questioning, she broke down finally and confessed to having fired the shot that ended her mother's life because the woman had remonstrated with her about "going out with men."

From the lips of this sixteen-year-old girl who found her pleasures in drink and association with men while she should have been in school, poured a tale of parties, liquor and jazz unparalleled any confession in police annals.

In her confession there is no indication of remorse for her deed.

QUARRELED OVER MEN.

"Yes, I did it," she sad. "Mother and I had a quarrel Monday night when I came in. She told me I must quit going out with men and get a job. I told her I wouldn't. Tuesday morning we renewed our quarrel. finally got my brother's revolver and went into her bedroom and shot her."

Then she giggled. Later, smiling, unconcerned, this girl who danced her way down the trail of jazz and high life to the murder of her mother, posed time and time again for photographers.

Not alone from the lips of the girl came the tale of white lights, men and liquor, which led up to the scooting of the woman who bore her. Police, in their search of the girl's home, discovered a diary containing more of the philosophy that was Dorothy Ellingson's before she killed her mother—and is here today.

WRITES "THIS IS THE LIFE."

"Got drunk as usual" is one of the entries under date of August 23.

"Met Harry and Keith at the New Shanghai. Nice fellow. K also nice. I will get along with him fine. This is the life. We had a wonderful time—pep, jazz, went to the beach. Got drunk as usual."

The following day she wrote:

"Went to work as usual. Warfield in the afternoon. Went out at night on a hotel party with Ben and his gang. When it was over I was all in."

Two days later: "Went to work. Was late on the job. Had an argument with the boss. Quit. No more work for me. I am through if I keep this night life up."

Tuesday: May phoned. She was out last night. She won't go out tonight. Don't know what I'm going to do about it for I will not go there by my lonely.

The following was entered in the little book without a date:

"I've got to live and be free and my love must go where I wish it."

PAID $65,000 FOR "BRIBES"; ONLY GOT BOTTLE OF RUM

New York, Jan. 15.—A bottle of whiskey was all he and his associates got for $65,000 which they were led to believe was to have been used in bribing government officials, Samuel F. Safir, former president of the Crager system, a stock-selling organization, testified in Federal Court today at the trial of Gaston B. Means, former Department of Justice agent, and Thomas B. Felder, attorney, on charges of conspiring to obstruct justice.

Safir, with other officers and employers of the Crager system, were indicted for using the mails to defraud. Witnesses said they were induced to pay Means $65,000 on his representation that he would use it to bribe Attorney-General Daugherty and other officials.

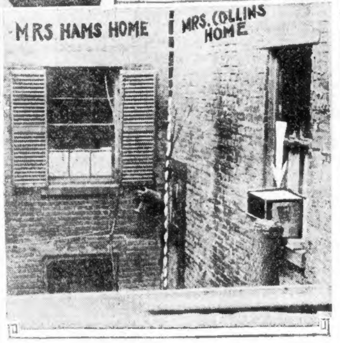
Keeping Baby's Milk Cool on Window Gets Mother Into Court

A window box in which she keeps cold the milk for her baby has brought Mrs. May Collins of Hanson street, South End, into court.

Miss Catherine Ham, of Ringgold street owns a section of the tenement block at Hanson and Ringgold streets. Her property is immediately adjoining the rooms occupied by Mrs. Collins and her baby.

The window box which Mrs. Collins has placed upon the outside sill extends 11 inches over the line into Mrs. Ham's property, the latter claims. Miss Ham has brought a bill in equity in Superior Court to compel Mrs. Collins to remove the box.

Milk for her baby must be kept fresh, Mrs. Collins avers, and she has no other means than the window box of keeping it in a cool place. Therefore, unless the courts decide differently, the box is going to stay.



BOX ON WINDOW CAUSING ROW

Mrs. Collins keeps her baby's milk cool in a box on the window of her flat on Hanson street, South End. Mrs. Catherine Ham, owner of the adjoining house on Ringgold street, haled Mrs. Collins to court when the latter refused to remove the box. Mrs. Ham claims it extends eleven inches over her property.

DR. JOHNSON IS CLEARED IN WILL CASE

Dr. Herbert S. Johnson, former pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, has been exonerated by Judge Fosdick in the Suffolk County Superior Court, of any fraud or undue influence in connection with the making of the will of the late Louis H. Perley, who left the bulk of his property to the Anti-Saloon League and Berea College in Kentucky.

The will is being contested in the court by Mrs. Delphine Jenks of Chicago, and Edwin F. Gillette of Pasadena, Cal., niece and nephew who were named as beneficiaries in a former will.

In making the contest they charged unsoundness of mind, and also charged Dr. Johnson with having too much influence over Mr. Perley in the making of the will.

Dr. Johnson took the witness stand and testified that he had talked with Mr. Perley once before the will was executed, and had simply recommended certain charities as worthy of consideration. He said he had also recommended his own personal counsel to Mr. Perley. After the evidence had been submitted counsel for Dr. Johnson asked the court for a ruling as to whether or not there was evidence of fraud or undue influence on the part of Dr. Johnson. Judge Fosdick heard the arguments and ruled that there was no such evidence and will not allow this issue to go to the jury.

MALDEN WILL BATTLE 'L' IN COURTS

Protests having failed of accomplishment, court action was today decided on to compel the Boston Elevated to restore trolley service between the Everett "L" terminal and the Faulkner section of Malden.

The Malden City Council requested Mayor John D. Devir to start proceedings in the Supreme Court to force the Elevated to resume service in keeping with the terms of its franchise.

Only in this way, residents of the Faulkner district believe, can they obtain action, the Elevated having paid no heed to protests.

The abandonment of trolleys and substitution of busses aroused the indignation of the entire district. Irate citizens, forced to take the busses to Malden square and there transfer to trolleys, in order to get to Everett terminal, appealed to the Elevated trustees in vain.

Declarations that the district was being ruined and that, with the arrival of warm weather, there would be an exodus of residents fell on deaf ears.

At a meeting of citizens affected, the then Mayor-elect Devir declared he would appeal to Governor Fuller to act. Alderman-elect Kaplan suggested the city take advantage of the revised laws and compel the "L" to remove all its tracks in Malden if it failed to give trolley service in the districts where it was desired.

FALL RIVER SEES MILL PEACE

300 Weavers Return Today; 175 Come Back Tomorrow; Less Than 1000 Now Out

Fall River, Jan. 15.—Complete settlement of the strike of mill workers against a 10 per cent. wage reduction seemed near at hand today when 300 weavers returned to the Davis mill and 175 plain goods weavers of the Tecumseh-Davol plant voted to return tomorrow.

The Davis mill weavers were back today as a result of a wage readjustment offered by Treasurer Frank L. Carpenter.

A conference today between the 250 striking Tecumseh-Davol employes resulted in half of them voting to return to their jobs tomorrow. The remaining 175, constituting the fancy goods weavers, did not reach an agreement but another meeting with mill officials is expected to bring results.

Other conferences are being held and both union leaders and mill executives expect an early settlement of the difficulties, they said.

The number of strikers now out is less than 1,000. John D. O'Connell of Salem, national secretary of the American Federation of Textile Operatives, has sent a message to the local union endorsing the strike.

Hint General Strike at New Bedford Mills

New Bedford, Jan. 15.—While the vote of several textile unions who registered their views on the 10 per cent. wage reduction to become effective in cotton mills of this city next Saturday was not made public today, union officials said that the apathy of the rank and file of the textile operatives might result in a general strike being called in the cotton industry here.

Five of the seven unions affiliated with the textile council met and leaders said that not more than one-quarter of the total membership was represented. The remaining unions will vote tonight.

NURSE SAYS RICH MAN AND GIRL BEAT HER

San Francisco, Jan. 15.—Charging that she was severely beaten by R. C (Cliff) Durant, wealthy sportsman of California and Miss Lea Gapski, a guest, while aboard Durant's yacht at Honolulu harbor last October 4, Mrs Martha Fuller, a nurse, has filed suit for $100,000.

Mrs. Fuller alleges that both Durant and Miss Gapski participated in the attack after she had remonstrated with Miss Gapski for violating instructions of her physician as to diet.

BROOKLINE PARENTS ANGRY

Declare School Board Indifferent to Their Wishes on Session Hours

Members of the Brookline High School Parent Teacher Association at a meeting bitterly assailed the School Committee's "attitude of indifference" to the desires of the parents in the matter of hours of school sessions.

The discussion arose out of the school committee's decision to add a half hour to the high school session in the face of the protests of 1,600 parents of Brookline pupils.

"Some of the school committee have no children and some of the members have children in private schools, and they rule what is best for us in the public schools," declared Dr. Stephen H. Roblin.

"Out of the 1,600 parents who signed the referendum opposing the school committee's action there are individuals as qualified as the nine members of our school committee. The school committee is our servant, elected by the people, and is not to be dictatorial or autocratic," he said.

The association again went on record as opposing the action of the committee.

The real issue, the Rev. Malcolm Taylor, chairman of the association, declared, was beyond the technical question of the half hour, "but the conviction of the parent that the school committee is indifferent."

CATHOLIC BLOC HOLDS POWER IN GERMANY

(Copyright, 1925, by Universal Service.)

Berlin, Jan. 15.—The German Cabinet crisis, representing the longest and bitterest struggle for power in Germany since the Republic was founded, ended today with a well-nigh complete victory for the Nationalists and a triumph for foreign Minister Stresemann.

The stage is all set now for a conservative "Bourgeois bloc" right wing Cabinet under Dr. Hans Luther as Chancellor, which will be dominated by the Nationalists and the Stresemann People's party. Both are committed, platonically at least, to the return of the monarchy.

For the democratic and republican forces the developments mark a rout, but the Cabinet can exist only by the grace of the Catholic centre, which is pledged to the maintenance of the Republic and which can topple the new Cabinet any time it chooses.

The Cabinet is a mixture of the coalition, "super-party," and business Cabinet programs. Only three members formally represent their parties. The others are ostensibly just "experts" in administration.

WILL PROBE VISIT OF GRAND DUKE BORIS

Washington, Jan. 15 (I.N.S.)—Acting upon the request of Representative Laguardia of New York, the Department of Labor will investigate the circumstances surrounding the forthcoming visit of the Grand Duke Boris of Russia to the United States, it was announced today.

Laguardia asked that an inquiry be made to determine if the Duke is likely to become a public charge, and if he has any intention of seeking to overthrow the American government.

When the Grand Duke arrives in New York City his credentials will be examined by the immigration authorities. If they are not satisfactory his admission to the country will be refused, immigration officials said today.

Cleveland's Son Will Wed Princeton Girl

WORD was received at Harvard University today of the engagement of Francis Grover Cleveland, Harvard senior and son of the late President Grover Cleveland, to Miss Alice Erdman of Princeton, N. J.

Miss Erdman is the daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles R. Erdman of Princeton, where Dr. Erdman is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Cleveland's mother, now Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, Jr., lives at Princeton. The announcement came as a surprise to the college friends of young Cleveland.

SENATE GROUP DOOMS WORLD COURT PLAN

Washington, Jan. 15.—The [illegible] ing Hughes-Coolidge proposal that the United States join the World Court of the League of Nations is dead so far as the present session of Congress is concerned. This virtually was made certain when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee postponed consideration of the matter for another week.

MALDEN MAN IS GLAD AUTO WAS STOLEN

All auto thieves are not so black as painted, declares Albert Finn, No. 15 Clifton street, Malden. Finn had his auto stolen from in front of a Malden theatre and the next day received word it had been found deserted on Dudley street, Boston. Finn hastened to claim the car. Much to his surprise, he found the thieves had added a set of chains to the car's equipment and had left them on the car when they deserted it.

ATLANTIC ALSO PUTS UP PRICE OF GAS

Following the example set by the Standard Oil Company, the Atlantic Refining Company today increased the price of gasoline two cents a gallon. The Texas Company expects to follow suit and it is understood all the gasoline companies will take the same step.

Socony and Texaco are now selling for twenty cents a gallon at filling stations as a result of the increase. The Standard Oil increase was put into effect yesterday.

CULBERTSON IN BOSTON DEBUT

American Violinist Renders Well Chosen Program at Symphony Hall

Sasha Culbertson, American violinist who made his Boston debut at Symphony Hall last night, is not a youthful prodigy, being already over thirty. But while many in the large audience may have been disappointed in their expectation of looking upon a youngster fiddling like a master, the disappointment was of a pleasing nature.

For Culbertson is a finished violinist, a virtuoso who has put behind him the work necessary to build up adequate technique for performing, and who can concentrate on interpretation. The most notable single element in his playing is a tone of unusually rich texture, unlike that of most violinists to whom we have become accustomed.

Culbertson played a well-chosen program which included among other things Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata. The performance of this piece was a good one, but especial credit is due to the accompanist, Max Rabinovitch. Such a sympathetic accompanying has not been heard in Boston this year.

FOX-BURGIN-BEDETTI TRIO IN FIRST CONCERT

The Fox-Burgin-Bedetti Trio, an old Boston group, gave their first concert of the season at Jordan Hall. The program included trios by Schumann, Ravel and Brahms. Boston is fortunate, indeed, in having an organization as fine as this one dispensing chamber music. Each of these men is a virtuoso in his own right, and now that they have been playing together their ensemble work is more finished.

The performance would not have suffered by a little more subordination of the piano. There is a special reason for this, which is that Jordan Hall is not very large and the piano resonates a great deal. Otherwise the playing was excellent.

All Paths Lead to Boston Arena Tonight for Society's Sport Followers

(Photo by P. & A.)

TALENTED SKATERS

Miss Virginia Oakes and Miss Elizabeth Sprague, two prominent debutantes, on the ice at Lake Placid where a smart Boston contingent went for the Winter sports.

By Betty Alden

ALL PATHS THIS EVENING lead Arena-ward where the Radcliffe Carnival promises a program of figure skating and star hockey games with thrills galore for Society's ardent sport followers. Members of the Smart Set on the ice will be applauded by the smart aggregation filling the cordon of boxes and scattered through the gay auditorium.

MESDAMES Leverett Saltonstall, Moseley Taylor, Thornton K. Lothrop, John H. Bartol and hosts of others will entertain box parties, and Mrs. Andrew Adie and her young people, Mrs. A. Winsor Weld, Mrs. Richard Saltonstall and Mrs. Roland G. Hopkins are some who have reservations.

AS I scan the patroness roster my eye meets many a distinguished name: Mrs. John Homans, Jr., Mrs. Brandegee, Mrs. Samuel Mixter, Mrs. Robert W. Knowles, Mrs. George P. Baker, Mrs. Benjamin L. Pitman, Mrs. Robert Treat Paine Storer and others of like importance.

THOSE much paragraphed skating stars and the valiant hockey players of the Green and Crimson—Theresa Weld Blanchard, Nat Niles, Edward Bigelow and George Owen, Jr., Leon Tuck and Clarence Wanamaker—are headliners in the entertainment and need no introduction here to their hosts of admirers.

BOSTON'S world of fashion is to have a brilliant and financially successful two weeks of grand opera, so the promoters say, and from the perfect avalanche of reservations already booked there's every evidence that the most ambitious expectations of E. Sohier Welch and his confreres in this stupendous undertaking will be fulfilled.

SOCIETY is enthusiastically putting its shoulder to the wheel, with all the delight in this coming artistic treat that music lovers and opera devotees evinced in the days of yore when that distinguished personage, the late Mrs. Jack Gardner, queened it on Opera nights, in her famous box in the lower horseshoe.

MR. WELCH fairly beamed with happiness at the promised success of his venture as I met him in the busy office where the staff is putting in long hours filling applications.

EQUALLY pleased, of course is Edwin Farnham Greene, who is shoulder to shoulder with Mr. Welch in the bringing of the Chicago Opera hosts to Boston. And no less gratified are their associates, Messrs. B. H. Bristow Draper, Walter C. Baylies, George Brown, Henry B. Day, George C. Lee, John R. Macomber, James J. Phelan, Galen Stone, John E. Thayer and Daniel Wing—truly a group to conjure with.

MRS. J. MONTGOMERY SEARS has taken a box for the opening performance of the Opera and will entertain in honor of her youthful kinswoman, Josephine Choate of Boston and Southboro. Just recently Mrs. Sears gave a debutante luncheon for Josephine at her Arlington street home. Mrs. Sears is soon joining those who flit southward for a taste of semi-tropical warmth and sunshine. She is going to Palm Beach for a short stay.

Second Junior Supper Dance Tomorrow Night

ALL the young sets above the debutante age will flock to the Copley-Plaza tomorrow evening for the second of the smart Junior Supper Dances. These affairs are highly popular and are to the younger set what the Senior Supper Dances are to their more sophisticated elder brothers and sisters.

MRS. ROBERT THOMPSON PELL (Alice Harding) will have a supper group of ten as her guests, and Lorna Underwood also is entertaining ten. The latter is the daughter of the Loring Underwoods of Belmont, and sister of that young matron, Mrs. D. Hunter McAlpin, 3d, now of New York.

MRS. PELL is a daughter of W. P. G. Harding of Beacon street and is much to the fore in the Winter's social program. She and Mr. Pell lived for about a year abroad following their marriage, which had for its setting that famous estate at the North Shore, "Princemere," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Prince.

AT that time the Hardings lived in Washington and Mrs. Pell's sister, Elizabeth, was Mrs. Freddy Prince, Jr. Since then she has become the wife of Boston's distinguished Eugene V. R. Thayer.

SPEAKING of Mrs. Thayer, she and Mr. Thayer live during the larger part of the Winter in New York, where she entertains frequently. She was a hostess at Pierre's one day recently for a luncheon group.

RETURNING to the chronicle of the supper dance, Barbara Forbes has reserved a table for fourteen guests. Miss Forbes came out last year and immediately became a belle in the bud set. She is a brilliant brunette and dresses her type to perfection, giving full rein to her flare for the picture gown of the 1860 maid.

Society Notes

THERE is a bee buzzing in the becoming bonnet of Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Jr., anent the forthcoming Infants' Hospital Cabaret which she and one or two other young matrons of high degree are arranging.

The cabaret comes in the Spring, and winds up the season in a perfect blaze of glory. Each cabaret has outdone its predecessors in originality and individuality. So everyone is wondering what this year's mise en scene will be. Something most unusual, of course.

The George Peabody Gardners were of the Boston contingent in New York recently, when they put up at the Ambassador. Also Mr. and Mrs. John J. Chickering and John, Jr.

Mrs. Laurence Morgan and Mrs. Marshall Fabyan and a smart coterie are arranging a rummage sale for the House of Mercy, in early February, of which I will have much more to say in a day or two.

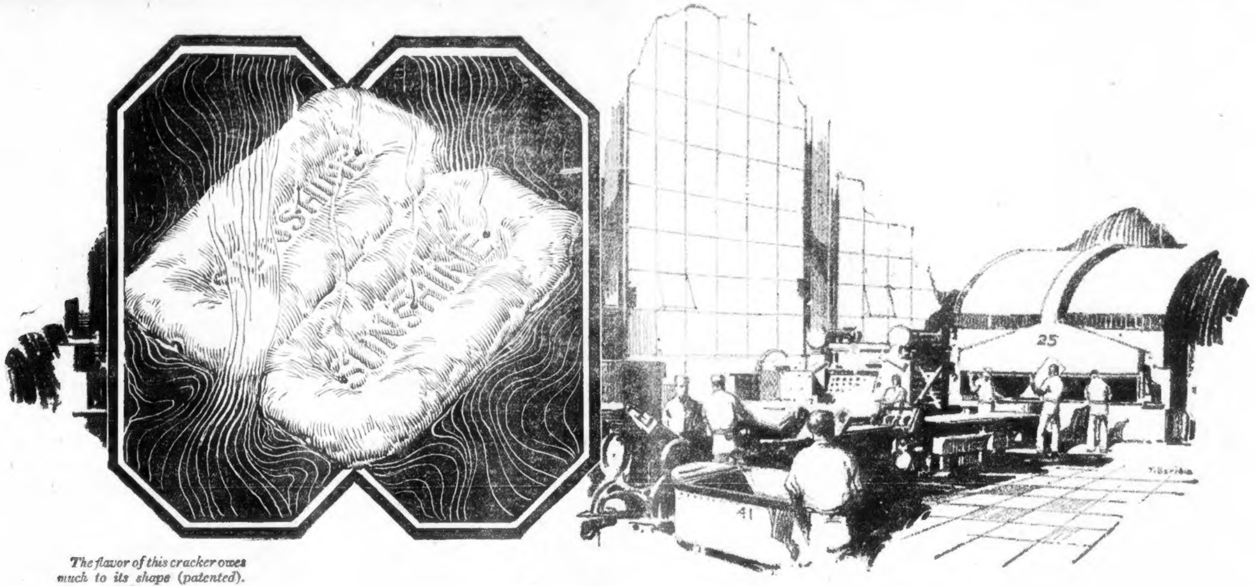
"There's a GINTER Store in Your Neighborhood"



The flavor of this cracker owes much to its shape (patented). The notched sides form vent holes in the sheet of crackers as they bake. This assures through and through baking. In addition this cracker is more convenient to eat—doesn't crumble and can readily be split in two.

Sunshine Bakers announce:

A new kind of soda cracker

—made in a new way

LONG before the Thousand Window Bakeries came East, the Loose-Wiles slogan was "Better Biscuits."

And there are many improvements, additions, and innovations to show that the Sunshine Bakeries have taken this aim seriously and to heart.

Here is another innovation—a new kind of soda cracker.

Perhaps no other improvement in biscuit baking means so much to so many people, for who doesn't like soda crackers.

It is well to remember that soda crackers once lived in a barrel, and not so long ago. Most of us still recall the day when first the habit of buying them in a package brought them to you clean and fresh.

Yet still, to most people a soda cracker is just a soda cracker. This is no longer true we feel sure, now that we can offer you this new Sunshine Soda Cracker, a better cracker, we honestly think, full-flavored, fine textured, plump and nourishing. We sincerely hope you will like it.

Full Grain Process—an advance in the Art of Baking

Now, as every housewife knows, the taste in food depends as much on preparation as on ingredients.

It is in the perfect balancing of these two that success comes—in better flavor, lightness and in eating quality. To secure these in a soda cracker we have used several new methods. A different way of working the dough, a different blending of the flour, a new way of cutting, and even a specially shaped cracker as an aid to through and through baking.

You will notice that these crackers are plump, rounded beauties—yet not powdery, thin or flinty. They have real substance and body and are free from any parched or flat taste.

Aside from its taste, this new cracker is high in calories (energy value). Compared to the other things you eat, it ranks way up at the top. Four crackers contain 100 calories. So that they not only taste good—but they are good for you—a real energy food.

Higher in food value than bread

—weight for weight

Healthy, common-sense folks are not apt to eat this thing or that just because it has energy value.

They trust their instincts in eating, as they should. But, of course, it is a good thing to know that this soda cracker, which almost everybody seems to like, is not just something to have around.

It is a real energy maker. Compared with all the other foods you eat, from soup to dessert, it ranks very high in fuel value.

AUTO MANSLAUGHTER CASE IS CONTINUED

In the meantime the contestants in the thirty-day marathon keep right on at their regular pace until this Saturday when the thirtieth set of puzzles will be published. To speed up the closing of the thirty-day cross-country run and to give the entrants a chance to start on the weekly sprints, two more sets of puzzles will appear in tomorrow's issue. The last set is scheduled for Saturday. Then finish.

Again, on Saturday the rules governing the thirty-set contest will be published for the last time, together with a blank to be filled out by the juniors and sent in with the solutions. The closing hour of the original contest will remain midnight, January 24.

Get this thirty-set out of the way and start right off with the weekly game. Don't wait for the results on the original contest. You'll get them soon enough. But start in at once tackling the first of the weekly run puzzles.

HOUSE TO GET COPY OF DINSMORE CASE

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien today announced that he is having a transcript of the testimony in the case of Representative Robert Dinsmore of East Boston prepared for submission to the House of Representatives for whatever use that body desires to make of it. Representative Dinsmore recently was acquitted on the charge of conspiracy to steal $300 from Harry Byer, alleged bootlegger, who claimed Dinsmore introduced him to a man in the corridor of Pemberton Square Courthouse as District Attorney O'Brien. Byer testified that later he paid $300 to the man who posed as the district attorney to "fix" his case in the Superior Court when it came up on appeal. Morris Abber of East Boston was acquitted of the same charges.

N. H. TOWN SEES RUIN IN B. & M. CUT PLAN

By BERT FORD.

Goffstown, N. H., Jan. 15.—Danger of factories being compelled to move to handier shipping centres, crippled industries, slashed valuations, business isolation.

These are some of the nightmares from which the good people of Goffstown are suffering at present as the result of the Loring plan to discontinue service on unprofitable branch lines.

"A town without a railroad is like a ship without a rudder," remarked a prominent business man. "And to have a railroad and then to take it away leaves a community stranded, high and dry. It's like knocking the props from under."

This citizen's off-hand appraisal sums up public sentiment here.

Goffstown is alarmed.

Business interests argue that the very existence of the thriving little community is at stake.

COMMITTEE TO FIGHT.

A relief committee has been appointed and counsel retained to join the fight to be made by remonstrants in New Boston and Weare and the other towns, villages and hamlets fringing the doomed lines, when they gather at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing to tell how the railroad pruning will effect their respective communities.

Goffstown is justly proud of its growth and its history. Nestling among the hills with a river piercing it, the town is ideally located about eight miles from Manchester, with which it is connected by hourly trolley service. Goffstown has long been popular as a Summer resort, but it has even greater possibilities as a Winter resort.

The fact that it has good trolley service and that the majority of the 3,000 inhabitants own automobiles lessens concern as to discontinuance of passenger train service, but cutting off rail freight service would be a real calamity according to the business men of the town.

The chief industries in the town are the manufacture of bobbins and shuttles and sashes and blinds. It is also the centre of an intensive poultry-growing section. The United States Bobbin & Shuttle Company has a modern plant and has just installed a new 300-horsepower dam. The "Bobbin Shop," as the factory is known, has done so well that the management was on the verge of enlarging the plant by concentrating in Goffstown plants now operated elsewhere.

MAY REMOVE PLANT.

The threat of the railroad to abandon the railroad line may not only prevent this merging of plants but may necessitate moving the entire factory to West Manchester. This would be a blow to Goffstown. The United States Bobbin & Shuttle Company business was founded by Hamilton Brothers. George Hamilton is president of the present company and his son, Morris W. Hamilton, is a vice-president.

F. W. Kendall, retired, a director in the Merchants' National Bank of Manchester, is chairman of the relief committee of which Morris W. Hamilton is a member. The committee is busy making charts, compiling freight statistics and harvesting other data to hurl at the Interstate Commerce Commission. Resolutions have also been drawn, but with the figures are not to be made public at this time.

Every business interest in town has lined up against abolition of the railroad line. The remonstrant already enrolled in Goffstown, all freight and express users, are:

Poultry growers and farmers—L. H. Hoyt, F. W. Russell & Son, Karl T. Whitney, Almore Burns, Mark C. Wheeler, Carl Pattee, S. K. Lovell, Fred L. Stark, George Whipple & Son, Porritt & Wells, Maurice O. Whipple, B. F. Davis, Charles F. White and Mr. Duchett.

Manufacturers—United States Bobbin & Shuttle Company, Kendall, Hadley & Co., Manchester Traction, Light & Power Company.

Coal, wood anr lumber dealers—W. A. Martin and B. F. Greer.

Merchants—Parker Brothers, A. E. Pattee, Royal Cash Market, A. & E. Remnant Store, Warren Grimes and A. L. Davis.

Grain Dealers—Merrimack Farmers' Exchange Inc., R. M. Gordon and Charles C. Moore.

Plumbers and Tinsmiths—A. M. Jenks & Sons, H. J. Richards.

Schools and Institutions—Hillsboro County Farm, Villa Augustina.

Miscellaneous—S. M. Johnson, Goffstown Motor Mart, P. J. Woodbury.

2 TRAINS A DAY NOW.

At present there are two passenger trains a day on the branch that serves Goffstown, New Boston and Weare and one freight train daily. The trains from Hillsboro arrive in Goffstown at 7:17 a. m., and 2:40 p. m. and return from Manchester at 12:08 and 6:32.

Inquiry in Goffstown showed that the inhabitants felt they could get along somehow without passenger train service although it would be a hardship in Winter and Spring when roads are unfavorable for motor service. Opinion appeared to be that substitution of bus lines for passenger service might be all right, but the business interests are vigorously opposed to substitutions of motor trucks for freight trains.

W. F. Parker of Parker Brothers, owners of the General Store, said:

"Quite a volume of freight is shipped out of Goffstown as figures being shown will show. In addition to the bobbin shop and the sash and blind shipments, there are dairy shipments. In the broiler season our poultry growers ship 120 crates a day. We're not so much concerned about passenger service. What we demand is continuance of rail freight service, without which our town would be terribly injured.

"The plan to abandon our line and other lines would hurt business and every phase of our community life. Much freight from the far West comes through Goffstown. If the railroad contemplates a change why not make our town the freight limit instead of at Kelley's Falls in West Manchester? That would help matters a lot.

"While we are anxious to help the railroad all we can, I personally can not sympathize with the argument that because certain lines don't pay they should be lopped off. My idea of business is that so long as the whole system pays the Boston & Maine ought to carry the lean lines with the others and make up the deficit on its profitable lines.

WOULD BE STRANDED.

"In our business we carry stock on which we might actually lose or not make much if any profit, but we are forced to handle such wares for the convenience of customers and the same rule should apply to railroads."

F. W. Kendall, chairman of the Goffstown Releif Committee, said:

"Discontinuing this railroad branch would play havoc with valuations. Valuations in New Hampshire are none too good anyway and everything possible should be done to boost them and not to reduce them. If this abandonment plan goes through it would mean a cut in valuations of from twenty-five to fifty per cent. We cannot afford such a loss. I am opposed to anything that hurts our community or any other community because it would hurt our State as a whole."

Weare, which is made up of a group of hamlets would be left stranded if the abandonment plan goes through. Weare is seven miles more remote than Goffstown. It has a scattered population of about 1,300. There are several toy shops in Weare. The toy manufacturers fashion their products from wood grown in the region. There is also a gravel pit from which heavy shipments are made daily. This gravel is said to be workable for generations to come.

Weare has appointed a protest committee and is compiling statistics like Goffstown, New Boston and affected communities on other lines. As there is no trolley connection with the outside world, inhabitants of Weare object to discontinuance of both passenger and freight service.

HOLD MASS MEETINGS.

New Boston and Weare have held public meetings of protest. New Boston was prominent in the fight before the Legislature. It is told there and in Weare and Goffstown how representatives of the Boston & Maine in citing revenue from the district overlooked an item of $1,800 paid by the Turner Centre Creamery for shifting service. The railroad is charged with concealing facts to further its ends.

But remonstrants admit that extensive use of automobiles and trucks in good weather has robbed the railroad of much patronage and that it has some ground for complaint.

FIND SKELETON AND WRECKED WAR PLANE

Amiens, France, Jan. 15.—The wreck of a Germain airplane and the skeleton of its pilot have been found in the forest of St. Pierre-Vaast, near the French battle plane which was discovered by a squad of artillerymen early this month. The French plane, in the debris of which there were two skeletons, has been identified as belonging to the 106th Squadrilla. Two machines of that unit collided while attacking a German plane on September 24, 1916, and fell into the woods.

CANADA'S EXPORTS OF WHEAT DECREASED

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 15.—Canada's exports of wheat to the United States, British Isles and other countries during the five months ended December 31, last, totalled 88,569,394 bushels, valued at $133,224,983, showing a decrease of 77,794,328 bushels over the same month in 1923.

Actress in 'Peril,' Spectator Shoots Stage Dragon

New York, Jan. 15.—Chinatown officially denied today that a new Tong war was imminent could not explain the mysterious shooting which took place in the Chinese Theatre in the Bowery.

In the Chinese play, a dragon was just about to devour a beautiful slave girl, when someone in the audience fired three shots at the animal. A panic ensued, and the play was stopped, but none was hurt.

NEW YORK DEFENCELESS, GENERAL BULLARD SAYS

New York, Jan. 15.—New York, gateway to the vital region of the Nation, is inadequately defended, Major-General Robert Lee Bullard, retiring today at the age of sixty-four, after forty years of service, told friends and associates at a farewell dinner.

"In this area are inseparably bound up the interests of the Nation," he said. "Yet there are spots on the New Jersey and Long Island coasts not prepared to resist hostile landing. An enemy fleet off this coast could separate us from the rest of the world."

V-1, Navy's Largest Submarine, Starts Trial Cruise

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 15.—The submarine V-1, the largest undersea boat in the United States Navy, sailed from the navy yard here for a trial cruise which will take four and a half months.

The vessel will go from here to Boston, where it will pass a few days, and then proceed down the coast to Virginia. From there it will make its real trial cruise to Bermuda and the West Indies, covering about 14,000 miles.

SEIZED LIQUOR LANDED AT SOUTH BOSTON BASE

The government's holdings of seized liquors was increased by several hundred gallons of real Scotch whiskey and Belgian alcohol, when two motorboats captured off Plymouth Saturday night by coastguardsmen were brought here and unloaded.

The C-2731, which is no stranger to the authorities, yielded twenty-eight barrels of Scotch, while the former fishing smack New Boston was found to contain beneath her hatches 317 cases of alcohol, with each case holding two five-gallon tins.

Uncensored News of Terror in Italy; King Saves Throne From Mussolini

Wide Revolt Is Kept Down By Force of 75,000 Men; 24 Persons Massacred and Bodies Left on River Bank

cree dissolving the Italian Chamber. Had he signed that decree, he might now be on his way to England in the footsteps of other dethroned monarchs.

This show of firmness on the part of the Italian King, the first he has displayed in two years, stopped just in time the dangerous anti-dynastic feeling which was rapidly spreading throughout the country, even in the southern provinces and in Piedmont, where monarchial traditions have existed for centuries.

Thus the Mussolini regime which proclaims its defence of the traditions of the country, has reached just the opposite result and its menace is driving the people towards the dynastic revolution.

Italy today is a perfect Eden as the home for 700,000 Fascisti and their sympathizers, and a perfect Hell on Earth for the other 38,300,000 citizens of Italy.

To an American observer the situation is amazing and almost incredible. The entire nation has been disarmed with the exception of Mussolini's men, who are provided with the best weapons and munition devised during the war. Armed resistance, therefore, is impossible.

RESTS ON ARMED FORCE.

The cardinal basis of Civilization—protection of the individual and his property and safeguard for the lives of citizens, is disregarded. Repression has been instituted. Murders and near murders happen daily and are excused under the trumpery phrase "for reasons of State."

PREMIER MUSSOLINI

Robber barons of Feudal times could teach nothing to Benito Mussolini.

Incredible as it may seem, Italian rule today rests on an armed force of some 75,000 irregular volunteers maintained at the expense of the State. Many of them, although wearing the Black Shirt, are still members of the Socialist party and as war veterans are familiar with the weapons with which they are profusely provided, including machine guns.

Premier Mussolini explains that the country is running dangerously near to Red revolution and, therefore, needs the militia to operate the return to normalcy. Anybody who dares to remonstrate is beaten up and made to "drink a quart of castor oil."

On assuming office Mussolini camouflaged his government as "constitutional" by taking into his cabinet members of the Liberal, Democratic, Populist and Conservative parties. But to counteract the moderating influences of his first ministers, he declared it necessary to constitute a "Committee of Public Safety" which would have supreme power even above the government and the Fascisti party.

Of this committee Mussolini constituted himself chairman, while the other members were leaders of the Fascisti. The Chief of Police was a general commanding the Black Shirt Militia.

Thereafter, the Italian Cabinet had to bow to all decisions taken by this committee.

Later, in 1924, finding it impossible to squash altogether the opposition, Mussolini perfected a secret committee called the "Tcheka," with the purpose of getting rid of opposition leaders in a summary way.

According to declarations made by former under-secretary of the foreign office, Signor Finzi, the Tcheka was organized in Mussolini's private home on the evening of January 10, 1924. Mussolini presided. Others present were Police Chief Di Bono, Press Bureau Chief Rossi, Manager Marinelli of the Fascisti Party, and Signor Giunta, then secretary of the party and now vice-president of the Chamber of Deputies.

It was against Giunta that the public prosecutor of Milan demanded authorization to proceed legally as the organizer, with Chief Rossi, of the party which flogged Deputy Forni, a member of the Fascisti party, whose views no longer tallied with those of Mussolini.

The program of the Tcheka, as decided upon that night, was "for the purpose of fulfilling such deeds as were deemed necessary for the welfare of the party." Marinelli was made treasurer, funds being supplied from State secret funds and by party contributions.

Rossi was appointed to head an office, the purpose of which was to recruit the "Bravi," or gunmen, who were to execute the sentences imposed by the committee. Under this leadership the flogging of Deputy Forni was organized by Giunta and Rossi, which has been confirmed by the Milan public prosecutor.

The raid on former Premier Nitti's villa was managed by Deputes Igliori and Polverelli by special order of Premier Mussolini.

EDITORS BEATEN UP.

The beating up of Amendela, leader of the Liberals, was arranged by Chief of Police Di Bono in Rome. In none of the cases except that of the flogging of Deputy Forni did the Rome police take any steps to punish the culprits.

It should be emphasized that Premier Mussolini remained president of the Tcheka during the entire series of outrages.

Concerning the murder of Deputy Matteotti, Finzi asserted that the decision was taken by the Tcheka at a special meeting at which a series of mysterious disappearances of opposition leaders was decided upon.

Thus has official murder been sanctioned and legalized under the heading "for reasons of State."

Meanwhile, prefects of police in various provinces who were unwilling to accept orders from Mussolini's preposterous regime were peremptorily dismissed and replaced by the President with his own men. In a similar manner all recalcitrant mayors were replaced by "Governmental Commissaries," while the usual police were made subservient to the regime or altogether supplanted by "Black-Shirted militia.

All newspapers not applauding the government have been suspended or suppressed. Those who dared open criticism have seen their offices and plants invaded by the militia, their linotype machines, presses and furniture smashed, and their buildings burned to the ground.

Editors have been beaten within an inch of their lives for daring to venture an opinion while to my knowledge one owner at least has been hounded across the country and does not dare to send his children out into the streets without a strong guard to protect them.

CLUBS SHUT DOWN.

When Parliament was assembled it was told to vote for all the measures suggested by Premier Mussolini or be dissolved. Courageous opposition members protested with vigorous and inspired speeches. Almost immediately Deputy Matteotti, leader of the Parliamentary opposition, disappeared. His body, frightfully mutilated, was discovered in a canyon weeks later.

Social clubs were shut down. Intellectual clubs were searched by the militia and their furniture smashed up. Authors of these crimes were whitewashed by the police whose chief, Di Bono, was Mussolini's right-hand man.

I have it at first hand that in December, 1922, following a quarrel over a girl in Turin, during which a Socialist fired on a Fascist, a punitive expedition was decided upon.

Consul Brandimante, commander of the expedition, selected twenty-four names from among Turin Socialists. These men were forthwith taken out of their homes and away from their families and were immediately shot. Their executions took place on the banks of the River Po and their bodies were left there uncared for.

Two days later, Premier Mussolini granted amnesty for all crimes, including this massacre.

Under these conditions of white terror, even the magistrates appeared to hesitate in their functions. Whenever one insists on dispensing real justice he is instantly placed on the retired list or moved from one end of the country to the other.

Asks Chamber Vote on Mussolini's Cabinet

Rome, Jan. 15 (A.P.)—A resolution by the opposition in which it will ask for a vote in the chamber of deputies against the cabinet of Premier Mussolini, was received today by Signor Casertano, president of the chamber.

The resolution states that liberty in all its forms must be guaranteed in order that the popular opinion may be freely expressed. It adds that this is not the case under the present methods of the government and that such a situation is "prejudicial to any question relating to political elections."

That this fee goes to a company which may test a few lamps out of a lot of thousands, but which "certifies" them all.

That the "testing company" is made up of Edison corporations throughout the country, with a laboratory in New York, and a branch in the East Boston factory of the General Electric Company.

That the number of Boston Edison shares outstanding is 467,111.

That this represents an increase of 100 per cent since 1921.

That there is now paid to Boston Edison stockholders in dividends $5,605,692 a year, at a rate of $12 per share.

That while the Edison Company uses between 300,000 and 400,000 tons of coal every year it has NEVER advertised for bids.

That for thirty years or more most of this coal has been handled through C. H. Sprague & Son of Boston, who also have acquired leases on Edison wharfs and piers WITHOUT COMPETITIVE BIDDING.

OF INTEREST TO CONSUMERS.

The [illegible] Monday, January 19, at 9:30 a.m. in the hearing room of the Department of Public Utilities.

Once again, President Edgar was the only witness. Mr. Hurlburt hopes to complete the case for the consumer in one more sitting. Frederick Manley Ives, able counsel for the Edison Company, intimated that the Edison may require "months."

Mr. Consumer, Mrs. Consumer and all the young Consumers who roam around the house turning on fifty-watt lamps—furnished "free"— and [illegible]

THERE'S A STRING TO IT

Although the Edison [illegible] company of Boston carries ten, fifteen, twenty, twenty-five, forty, and fifty watt lamps, President Charles L. Edgar admitted to Henry L. Hurlburt, Jr., attorney for the Boston American, it furnishes free ONLY THE FIFTY-WATT OR A LAMP OF LARGER SIZE.

One of the consequences appears to be, that in many cases consumers of electricity use twice as much as they [illegible]

[illegible]

Q.—[illegible] Mr. Edgar, you have brought up the question of the lamp [illegible] the Edison [illegible] custom of [illegible] with 50-watt [illegible] A.—I have. Q.—[illegible] Edison Company [illegible]

ADMITS BIG DISCOUNTS.

Q.—And it gets large discounts? A.—We get 40 per cent. off the list [illegible] Washington [illegible]

Q.—You get them cheaper from the General Electric Company? A.—Yes. If we bought all our lamps from the General Electric Company [illegible]

Q.—If the Edison sold these lamps to its consumers at cost—that is at the cost to the company, including that 40 per cent. off the list price and 2 per cent. for cash—it would not be giving anything away to the consumer, would it? A.—Except the cost of [illegible] The Edison Company [illegible] General Electric [illegible]

FIVE WATTS FOR SIGNS.

Q.—[illegible] Mazda lamps [illegible]

Q.—But doesn't that burn about twice the amount of current as a twenty-five-watt lamp? A.—That is true.

Q.—And more than three times as much as a fifteen-watt lamp? A.—Yes.

Q.—And five times as [illegible] ten-watt lamp? A.—Yes. [illegible] watt variety.

Q.—Now, Mr. Edgar, there are places around the house where a fifteen-watt lamp would serve the purpose quite as well as a fifty-watt lamp, aren't there? A.—I should say that is true.

Q.—And more places where a twenty-five-watt lamp would serve quite as well, isn't that true? A.—Unquestionably.

MORE CURRENT USED.

Q.—But if the Edison can keep all its sockets filled with fifty-watt lamps, and you furnish free of charge none below that size, the consumer is using very much more electricity than he really needs, isn't he? A.—If the company could do that, yes, but it doesn't.

Q.—And it has been the policy of the company to furnish these fifty-watt lamps free of charge in order [illegible] lighting load? A.—[illegible] been the reason. [illegible] its policy of furnishing [illegible] larger size lamps free [illegible] has been able [illegible] lighting load. [illegible] say that by its free lamp policy, furnishing these fifty-watt lamps free of charge, the company keeps its sockets filled with them and the consumer is likely not to economize in his use of current? A.—The [illegible] is incorrect.

Q.—Let me ask you again if the policy of the company has not been stated in substantially these words.

"By its general policy of furnishing lamps on free exchange in this way sockets have been kept filled and the customer is less likely to economize on current. THE POLICY HAS BEEN FOUND TO PAY."

A.—That is true.

Minnie was [illegible] by Letcher's easy familiarity as he came through the dressing-room. 'Well, look who's with us,' shouted Letcher. 'What's your name, sweetie?'

What price would you pay to become a Movie Star?

If you were young and beautiful but unknown and poor—what sacrifices would you be prepared to make to gain fame? Would you be willing to pay the price that Minnie Flynn paid?

She had lived eighteen wistful years in a tenement—she clerked in a Ninth Avenue department store—she thought Shakespeare wrote scenarios for the movies. That was Minnie, young, lovely, only wanting her chance.

And, the very next year—Hollywood—a $1,000 a week contract—that was "June Day," moving-picture star.

How did she do it—who saw in the shabby girl a type that would be adored by a million theatre-goers? Could she refuse the hand that had really lifted her out of the slums?

Would you say "NO" in her place?

Read Minnie's introduction to, and life in, the movies in the sensational new novel starting in the February Pictorial Review.

"The Rise and Fall of Minnie Flynn"
by
FRANCES MARION

The Beauty of Lincoln. An appreciative study by an eminent scientist, Albert Edward Wiggam.

"Why I Did Not Marry Again." A well-known professional woman makes an anonymous confession.

Two Beautiful Color Pictures worth $3. A splendid reproduction of P. Monstead's celebrated painting, "The First Thaw." Also the Fourth picture in the series by M. Leone Bracker from the Ten Commandments.

Her dramatic story is written by one of the highest paid and cleverest scenario writers in the world,—the Frances Marion who wrote the film versions of "Cytherea" and "Tarnish."

She takes you behind the scene into the studios, she is intimately associated with the foremost film stars.

She shows you the whole panorama of intrigue, follies, costly extravagances,—and many parts of the story are actually taken from life! See if you know who "Minnie Flynn" is.

Minnie Flynn is a story you must read. Don't miss the beginning in the February Pictorial Review which comes out January 15. Get your copy today!

WILL LEONARD QUIT?

Benny Leonard

[illegible]

With Leonard now it is only a question of getting down to the weight limit of his class [illegible] pounds. There is doubt in the minds of some as to whether he can make this figure, but we feel that with six weeks or two months of hard training he CAN do it. Because of his long period of inactivity he would need this length of time to train for a championship bout.

BENNY'S TROUBLE

[illegible]

Knee injury suffered in the Harvard-Dartmouth game is proving troublesome to "Izzy" Zarakov. This lad had a brilliant athletic career at Cambridge Latin, Exeter and in his freshman year at Harvard and was heralded as another Eddie Casey because of his broken field running. Just how serious his knee injury will prove time alone will tell but it is hoped that he will be his old self on the gridiron next Fall. If he is Harvard will witness some of those end runs that carry a thrill with them.

Izzy Zarakov

ANOTHER BARRIER UP.

With the opening of Miami today, four big race tracks will be in [illegible] in this country. [illegible] are New Orleans, Tia Juana and Havana. Miami is sponsoring racing for the first time, but the natives are [illegible] to the kind of [illegible] ago racing was popular at Jacksonville. A Boston sport [illegible] back from the sunny [illegible] the bettors are in for some trouble [illegible] from several [illegible] in Florida.

The operation for a growth in the shoulder of Urban Shocker's pitching arm may end his effectiveness as a hurler. Although neither Shocker nor the Yankees, whom he will pitch for next season, seem to be excited, the knife of even the most skillful surgeon is to be feared, and in a pitcher's case his arm is his most useful weapon.

NURMI RUNS 3 RACES AND RIDES 2,000 MILES IN FIFTY HOURS

FINN FACES GREATEST TEST EVER

New York, Jan. 15.—Serenely confident of the issue, in spite of the fact that he was on the verge of [illegible] schedule of races ever attempted by a runner, Paavo Nurmi prepared today to begin his second assault on world records beginning tonight and ending Saturday night.

The great Finn confidently predicted that he would add at least three of the nine world's records to his string, while at the same time he hangs up an endurance mark by running three races and traveling nearly 2,000 miles by rail in a matter of fifty one hours.

[illegible]

The nine records he will endeavor to annihilate in the course of this stupendous program are: Tonight, the mile and a half, one and three-quarters miles and the 3,000 meters; Friday night the mile, his own record set last week in his debut here, mile and a quarter, mile and a half and mile and three-quarters, and on Saturday night the mile and 2,000 meters figures.

Most average golfers will find themselves stooping too [illegible] shots. NORA LEE

A Story of Flaming Youth

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen. His dissolute habits soon made her miserable. The night he raised his hand to his two-year-old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Fairdale, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Nora, at seventeen, fell in love with Dane Herrick. Andrew was killed in an auto accident. Nora met Maxwell Reed, who made love to her. Margaret died and Nora was left alone. She plunged into a fast set of flappers. Virginia's death is a warning to her.

[illegible]

TO BEAUTIFY THE TEETH

By Maria Jeritza
Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day

A [illegible]

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When I make an afternoon call and cake and coffee are served, the cup and saucer are on a little plate. Should you take the cup and saucer off the plate and put the cake on the plate or should you leave the cup and saucer on the plate? A CONSTANT READER.

IT depends on the convenience. If you are served at a table and [illegible] for both the cup and saucer and plate it is more convenient to take the cup and saucer off the plate, and use the plate for the cake. If, as usually happens, you have to "juggle" the service, it is more convenient to leave the cup and saucer on the plate, push them to one side of the plate and put the cake on the other side of the plate where there is more room. If there is still more room on the side of the saucer than there is on the side of the plate you use that room for the cake.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My dining room windows look across an eight-foot driveway, right into my neighbor's [illegible]. Please tell me if it is rude and impolite if I draw the shades when we are having dinner. Many times we and our neighbors are sitting down for our meals at the same time and it is most unnerving. PUZZLED.

I REALIZE how puzzled you are, for there is a "terrible moment" when one is pulling down the shades and one thinks that perhaps he is being [illegible] by the other person. It is a real difficulty, when our neighbors are so close.

I advise, by all means, that you draw the shades; it really isn't rude or impolite. Perhaps you could make it a bit less conspicuous if you turn on the light for the evening. Could you? As you come into the room and before you turn on the lights, pull down the shades. Or, if you can't do this, pull down the shades as "casually" as possible, not quickly to suggest brusqueness or ungraciousness, and not as if you were conscious that there were an apartment across the way.

EILEEN TRAYMORE reminded [illegible] laughing heart of [illegible]

Models and Buyers

She had been in New York for five months and the only people she knew were [illegible] models, perfect sixteen in size and a few buyers who indifferently looked over the dresses she had designed and ordered with the air of conferring a great favor on her as well as on the manufacturer.

She would have given up in despair after a few months of the grind, if the little models had not whispered how pleased the boss was with her line of samples. He took care not to tell her. He had to be shown whether or not she had talent and the time to tell was when one of her models proved to be a "run-[illegible]

Had Not the Grit

She hadn't the grit to [illegible] the game any longer. From the very first day of her arrival she had set to work to make her [illegible] a homelike place where she could invite girls of talent and [illegible] whom she felt sure she would meet. And the man [illegible] she had thought that life in New York with its millions of milling humanity would bring adventure, thrilling adventure every day.

She knew that she was pretty, but no man glanced her way. There were many thousands "of her" in the subways every morning. She earned twenty dollars a week. She had believed that in less than a month [illegible] but Mr. [illegible] she would [illegible] before his [illegible] smash.

Suppressed Eagerness

There was an [illegible] eagerness [illegible] he strolled into [illegible] to speak to her.

"That little model with the [illegible] cape effect [illegible] eral on that style" [illegible] tiously. Then [illegible] ward them [illegible] I've booked more orders on that than any model I ever put out."

She gave him a quick flush of happy pride. The shrewd old face softened. He tapped her wrist with a bony forefinger. "Forty dollars a [illegible] beginning now" he said [illegible] New York.

[illegible] hands squeezed hers. In [illegible] Jimmy [illegible] she had once [illegible] holding on to her and [illegible] the leaves on the pecan trees when winter blew her heart toward the South. Something warm and eager in his eyes, glowing like a prodded fire.

"Where you going?"

She had on Christmas gloves, gauntlets an admiring model had generously bestowed on her. [illegible] smart swede [illegible] elegantly [illegible] the tea room.

A long, long time ago! Now [illegible] was earning forty dollars a week and the stars of heaven seemed bending very near the earth. And there was Ted Shawn whose compelling smile brought a flutter to [illegible] heart and whose lilting voice [illegible] heart right [illegible] of her breast like Humpty Dumpty off the wall.

Eileen tried to look at Jimmy, tried to take her eyes from Ted Shawn's darkening wistful dreamful eyes. But she couldn't!

"No—no, Jimmy—you're sweet to think of me that way, but I I'm never going to live in Oxford—I want to succeed—to go to Europe with the best of the designers to [illegible] from the masters—"

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

ACCORDING to statistics, Florida is rapidly taking the matrimonial fame away from Nevada. Women are getting their divorces in Reno and spending their alimony in Palm Beach.

THE best hotels in the South are crowded with girls who are living with their new husbands on their old husbands' ban kaccount.

OF course some women go to the cheaper hotels. They're ashamed to go back to the same place, two years in succession, with the same husband.

A WOMAN may still love a man but she has to divorce him so that people won't talk.

SHE either has to be old-fashioned or unhappy.

THE greatest sport in Palm Beach is going down to the post office every morning for your alimony.

IF you've had six or seven husbands you can receive some in every mail.

IF the postman doesn't bring you your separate maintenance, you can step over to the telegraph office and wire for it.

THEY employ a corps of lawyers who will be glad to help you word your message.

THE attorneys will tell you what names the law allows you to call your husband.

IT'S all right to hurt his feelings but you must be sure and insult him legally.

FAMOUS FIRSTS

By Mark Stuyvesant

SOMEONE once said that a boy would do anything for a penknife, but everyone now knows that a boy's prestige is not definitely established until he can boast of the possession of a watch.

There is no sensation that can be compared with the thrill he experiences when for the first time he can pull his own watch out of his own pocket and tell you what time it is.

The first name to be associated with this wonderful instrument is that of Thomas Tompion, who produced a watch in the eighteenth century that is essentially the same as the one used today.

The watch, as we know it, consist of a case containing a mainspring, a set of wheels which control the hands, an escapement, and a small wheel that is a combination balance wheel and hairspring.

The mainspring, which furnishes the drive for the wheels that move the hands, is very delicately constructed, diminishing in size from one end to the other.

It is wound up for only a few turns, so that the force from it may not vary to any degree.

The last mentioned part is made up of a small wheel, to which is fastened a spiral hairspring. This wheel, swinging with the regularity of a pendulum through an angle of from 180 to 270 degrees, marks the best of the watch.

Needless to say, this complicated piece of mechanism did not spring full-grown from the mind of Tompion. There were crude forerunners of this invention as far back as the end of the fifteenth century. But the timepieces of that early date were more ornamental than useful. One type of watch, oval in form and made in Germany, was named the "Nuremberg egg," and being too large to carry in the pocket was worn suspended from the girdle.

Queen Elizabeth made a hobby of collecting watches and had a large number of them, fantastic in shape and of marvellous workmanship.

There were watches embedded in the jewel-encrusted backs of grotesque bugs; others in the shape of crucifixes, flowers, seashells, little books, and one fashioned like a skull. King George III wore his watch set in a finger-ring.

The most radical advance made in recent years over the watch making of the eighteenth century—save, of course, many improvements of movements—has been in the invention of watch-making machinery, which has lowered the price to such a degree that a watch, once the extravagance of kings, is now within the reach of every one.

HOW THEY WERE FOOLED ON THE AMAZON

By Foxy Grandpa

UP the Amazon we went with two husky natives rowing us. I want to tell you that if you are looking for adventure there is the place to go. For more strange things happen on the great river than you can ever imagine.

And something strange happened to us.

It was getting toward noon and of course Bobby was looking for a nice place to stop for lunch. He had suggested stopping several times, and finally I could resist his appeal no longer, so I said:

"There's a good place, Bobby, over there under that tree overhanging the water." And I ordered our guides in the best Portuguese I knew to row us there. For you know Brazil, the country through which the Amazon flows, was settled by the Portugese.

We pulled up by the bank, took our lunch kit ashore and settled ourselves comfortably to eat our sardines, baked beans and biscuits.

After lunch I thought it would be a good thing to take a snooze—you know, only forty winks, just to rest my eyes.

So I stretched out, put my hat over my eyes and before I knew it I was dreaming about a scissors-grinder.

Bobby was just getting out his knife to whittle a stick as I dropped off to sleep, and as I lost consciousness I heard him say:

"This knife wouldn't cut butter."

But since we didn't have any butter with us, I thought it was unimportant and said nothing. I'll tell you a secret—I was too sleepy.

After a while, which seemed very short to me, I was awakened by an argument between Bunny and Bobby. It went something like this:

"I tell you it is a scissors-grinder," said Bobby.

"I tell you it isn't," said Bunny.

Then they started, "It is," "It isn't." You know how you do that yourselves. Finally they were out of breath and stopped.

But by this time I was awake.

"What are you two fellows fussing about?" I inquired, raising myself on one elbow and giving a great yawn.

"It's just this, Foxy Grandpa," said Bunny. "Do you hear that noise?"

"Isn't it a scissors-grinder?" asked Bobbie before I could answer Bunny.

"It certainly sounds like one," said I, expecting to hear at any moment a man call out:

"Any knives or scissors to grind?"

For, believe me, that noise sounded so much like the buzz of a knife on a whetstone that I thought it must be.

"But what under the sun is such a person doing in this out of the way place," I exclaimed.

"Perhaps there is a lumber-camp here and that is the sound of an axe being sharpened on the stone," suggested Bobby. "I'm going to see anyway. For my knife is as dull as a tin sword."

"I'll investigate myself," added Bunny hopping off beside Bobby.

This was too much for me. With a great effort—for I was having such a nice nap—I got up and followed Bunny and Bobby as they headed in the direction from which the noise was coming.

Soon we were right on the noise it seemed. In fact it was almost deafening.

"No lumber-camp here," said Bobby slowly.

"And no knife-grinder, either," said Bunny.

"Then what is it?" I asked.

"Look at that tree," said Bunny, pointing to a big beetle which was sitting comfortably, head down on the bark of a tall tree.

"For pity's sake!" I gasped. "Wonder what it is called?"

"Knife-grinder," answered Bunny.

"Wish he could sharpen mine," murmured Bobby.

KINDNESS REWARDED

Miss Dottie Dopple has been notified that she is the beneficiary in the will of King Bottleopener, of Tahiti, to the extent of $10,000. Miss Dopple, who is now writing a comic opera entitled, "Traffic Signs I Have Knocked Down," was formerly a telephone operator in the Mills Hotel, on the Common. When King Bottleopener was visiting here prior to 1915, he tried to call up his wife, who was in Newton at the time.

"The line is busy," Dottie told him. So he went out and had a lot of fun. A codicil in the will explains that that was the only alibi that went over in a complete tour of the U. S. Miss Dopple says she will use the money to found an etiquette school for bill collectors.

SULPHUR HEALS SKIN ERUPTIONS

Even Itching Eczema Is Helped Over Night by Mentho Sulphur

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

MENTHO-SULPHUR

Use Sage Tea when Gray hairs appear

ALMOST everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

If 1925 meets expectations, there will be more jobs than men to fill them.

How many employers are taking pains to make sure that they will be able to attract all the workers they will need when boom times come?

Business success is partly a matter of foresight. It is partly a matter of understanding human nature. It is becoming more and more a matter of learning how to win the loyal, enthusiastic co-operation of workers.

Have you not an uneasy feeling that too many employers have failed to read aright the result of the November 4 voting? Have you not noticed expressions from capitalistic sources that socialism and radicalism have been "killed" in this country?

The conservative Coolidge triumph admittedly was most notable. But have reactionaries attached sufficient importance to the magnitude of the vote cast for the radical La Follette? La Follette attracted more followers than Roosevelt did when a third party candidate. No fewer than 4,657,312 voted for La Follette.

* * *

Now, we must assume that each one of these 4,667,312 is dissatisfied with the result of the election and also with the way things have been running in this country.

What is being done, is enough being done to endeavor to remove causes for their discontent?

The election returns should have been interpreted as a clarion call to the "haves" to bestir themselves earnestly and most energetically to remove as far as possible every cause of discontent.

An appeal to patriotism often fails where an appeal to the pocket succeeds. It is, therefore, timely to invite employers to consider how their pockets may be affected if they do not strive painstakingly and enthusiastically to earn a high reputation for considerate, humane, generous treatment of workers.

The point need not be emphasized that, if there are not enough workers to go around when business waxes unusually prosperous, the concerns that will suffer most will be those that have neglected to exercise foresight and to act forehandedly. The best employers will attract the best class of workers and will stand the best chance of getting all the workers needed to cope with whatever abnormal demands arise for their products.

* * *

It is for such employer to decide for himself what measures he should take to draw his work people close to him. Some employers act on the principle that "money talks," and that nothing else matters much. Others have discarded this idea after having found that the higher wages went, the less satisfactory and less efficient their workers became.

I hold no brief for any one "plan."

It does appear, however, as if real results are being harvested by corporation managers who, actuated by right motives, have instituted some form of "employes representation" to confer with the management, enable employes to purchase company stocks on the weekly or monthly plan, and granting these purchases special advantages as to price and the dividends paid, is unquestionably proving helpful, otherwise we would not see so many well-managed enterprises adopting this particular plan.

* * *

In my humble opinion, the granting of vacations with pay is one of the best ways of pleasing wage-earners.

* * *

The ant knows enough to prepare for the Winter during the Summer. Far-sighted employers will be equally wise.

SUGAR MERGER IS ABANDONED, SAYS BABST

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Earl D. Babst.

As American Sugar is generally reckoned among the ten stocks most largely held in New England, it is reasonable to assume there is a good deal of interest in this section in the announcement of Earl D. Babst, president of the American Sugar Refining Company that because of the company's inability to secure a modification from the court of the present decree forbidding purchase of the National Sugar Company assets, it has been unable to carry out the proposed purchase.

The American Sugar Company, he adds, is withdrawing its petition from further consideration at this time by the Department of Justice.

The negotiations, Mr. Babst says, were undertaken by directors and officers of both companies as a constructive step in the sugar trade.

President Babst concludes: "However, without full and prompt approval under the law the transaction would not be attractive to the parties nor helpful to the trade."

* * *

More than a year ago the writer, cooperating with Congressman James of Michigan, began voicing the demand of American copper men for a protective tariff.

At first there were comparatively few advocates. The menace of the Katanga mines in Africa was underestimated, though it is now beginning to be understood very generally.

Copper producers are flocking around the tariff standard, until its supporters now include practically all the big copper men in Boston and the rest of the zone interested in the future of American-produced red metal.

* * *

In "Mining and Metalling," official journal of American Institute of Mining Engineers, F. Ward Paine of Boston says the country's young mining engineers will be forced to seek employment in Central Africa and in the Andes unless copper is afforded tariff protection.

"As consumption in the United States has doubled since 1913 and production increased but 20 per cent. during that period, the country in 1923 used about all the copper which it produced," says Mr. Paine.

"Consumption in the first six months of 1924 was 10 per cent. larger than in the corresponding period of 1923.

"There has not been a corresponding increase in production, so that for 1924 our mine output is likely to be less than the United States consumption.

"Why should the United States get the bulk of its copper from abroad rather than from its own large deposits? These are well adapted to supply copper at an entirely reasonable cost, but some protection is required. If no protection is obtained, more and more of our young mining engineers will be obliged to seek employment in Central Africa and in the Andes instead of in this country.

"Refusing reasonable protection would be entirely inconsistent with the policy of this country toward all other 'articles for the production of which this country is adapted.' The best way to obtain our copper production on a sound and permanent basis is to keep the good mines in a reasonably prosperous condition.

"There is no other industry in the United States which would not suffer to a corresponding or greater extent if subjected to comparable foreign competition."

TRADING QUIET IN NEW YORK MARKET

Trading was quiet in the afternoon after a rather lively morning on the New York Stock Exchange.

Posting of a higher renewal rate for all money at 3½ per cent. had a restraining effect on trading.

American Can, Baldwin, Radio Corporation, General Electric and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe yielded readily to pressure. Atlantic Refining, which broke 9 points Wednesday, recovered most of its loss. United Fruit advanced 5 points and Savage Arms over 3.

Chesapeake & Ohio touched a new top, presumably in reflection of efforts being made by minority stockholders to obtain better lease terms from the Van Sweringen interests.

American Smelting & Refining also attained a new peak.

S. S. Kresge sold at 475 as against a previous sale of 497 two days ago. Woolworth, Denver & Rio Grande, Western preferred, Commercial Solvents B and Burns Brothers lost 2 or more each.

Rallying tendencies were noted around noon with General Electric and Radio Corporation making moderate recovery from early heaviness.

Price Uncertainty Evident in Dealings in Boston

Price uncertainty was apparent in dealings on the Boston Stock Exchange. Issues to record good gains were: United Fruit, from 208½ to 210, and Edison Electric, up a dollar to 200, considering that the shares are selling minus the $3 dividend. On the other hand Hood Rubber common was down ⅞ to 57 and lesser fractional recessions were popular.

There have been admitted to trading United Ice Service Company 15,000 allotment certificates, in temporary form, representing 15,000 shares of preferred stock, par $100, and 15,000 shares of no par common stock.

NANTASKET STEAMBOAT EARNINGS INCREASED

In spite of poor weather of early Summer in 1924, the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company had a fairly satisfactory season. For the year ended December 31 last it earned net of $103,000, equivalent to $10.30 per share on $1,000,000 capital stock, comparing with $6.05 per share in 1923, $8.50 in 1922 and $9.20 in 1921.

The line carried about 1,484,000 passengers in 1924, or 16,000 less than in 1923. In 1921 it carried over 2,000,000. In 1924 a dividend of $6 per share was paid, the same as in 1923. In 1922 the dividend was $7 and in 1922 $8.

Capital after the increase will consist of 10,000 shares of no par value common stock and the $2,200,000 preferred stock.

KING ATTACKS LAWSON IN HIS NEWSPAPER

lie White" alias, principally because it had no proof that it was not a real William White responsible.

An investigation was begun, however—aided and "three-cheered" by King and his Tribune—until the postoffice ran the advertisements to Lawson's door.

Through using the alias and being responsible for mail containing money being sent to the mythical person, Lawson came under the letter of the postoffice law that forbids fraudulent practices.

Postoffice inspectors informed Lawson, in the face of his denials, that they had proof of his being "Willie White."

Promises to Be Good

Finally Lawson admitted he had been fibbing a bit and gave his promise to offend no more. On the few occasions that he did use the alias thereafter, he signed his own name beneath, taking full responsibility for any and all acts of "Willie White."

He could not refrain, however, from a slap, as evidenced by the following ad:

"Having my attention called to the fact that a story was put afloat today that I had ceased advertising because of a notification from the postoffice authorities that I must do so, I desire to state:

"The postoffice authorities did say that my enormous mail was clogging up the postoffice and that they hoped, if convenient, that I would make it as light as possible. I agreed to the request on the assurance that all things connected with it were confidential.

"WILLIAM W. WHITE.
"Care of Thomas W. Lawson."

Immediately King came back in an editorial in the Boston Daily Tribune with:

"I brand this statement as false and as published with intent to deceive and mislead the public, as were practically all the other statements in the same advertisement, and I hereby agree to pay to Thomas W. Lawson, to 'William W. White' or to any charity either of them may name, the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) on receipt of proof that the statements in any of the sentences I have quoted from the joint advertisement of 'William W. White' and Thomas W. Lawson are not absolute falsehoods, published simply and solely to deceive."

Takes King's Clerk

Lawson had no daily paper to aid him on his side of the ruckus. Every printed word that went before the public in the fight, Lawson paid for from his own purse.

But he was a general where King was but a colonel, by comparison. The Southerner delivered all his blows amid fanfare and flourish, while those of Lawson came swift and stinging and unheralded, out of the dark and at a time and from a point least expected.

The Moses incident was hardly cold in the public mind when Lawson once more reached into the vitals of King's organization and plucked one of King's closest workers from the enemy's camp into the Lawson fold of retainers.

Henry Hovey Love was the name of the kidnaped one. He was manager of King's clerical force. Love is described as the only one of King's benchmen not enthusiastic over the campaign outlined against Lawson.

The principal thing in the campaign with which Love was not in sympathy was a long harangue in King's paper—a whitewash of purest lily white as regards the King interests and a villification of most stygian hue wherein it affected Lawson.

King has declared, and repeated time and again, that neither he nor the Tribune ever went out of the way to attack Lawson; that, as a matter of fact, the Tribune leaned backwards in its fairness where Tom was concerned.

Several things belie this statement, however, one of which was the particularly spleeny attack on the "Old Man" in the third month of the paper's existence and at a time when no especial overt act on Lawson's part appeared to warrant the fresh outburst.

The Tribune's Blast

Skimming the text of the lengthy tirade, one would gain the impression that King, seated in his office on a rainy Monday had fallen a victim of the blues and had resolved to relieve his troubled mind by lacerating the hide off Lawson.

The Tribune blast was headed: "Unmasking a Hypocrite and Deceiver"—which made a good head to begin the thing.

It purported to be a review of the entire King-Lawson feud—entirely from the King side, of course—and was most damning to "T. W."

But Lawson, throughout his life in the dollar arena, turned always a tough hide to the world. His philosophy, as far as publicity was concerned, was that "every knock is a boost" and the lustier the knock, the greater the boost.

The King "expose" was filled with such terms as "financial parasite," "foul methods," "pernicious activity," "evil influence," "degenerate and derelict," "superior villainy," and other choice phrases.

"Aaron Burr may be classed as a soldier of fortune and a premature empire builder, compared with Thomas W. Lawson," read one line.

Then, in another place: "The millions that have come into his hand and passed out again in the mad desire for luxury, for unattainable social position, for ostentation, have been wet with the tears of the ruined who trusted him.

"How many pistol shots in the hand of suicides, how many foreclosures of mortgages, how many despairing prayers of widows and orphans have been the direct result of his methods may never be known."

King Builds Web

And yet, even as Lawson in his suite at Young's was chuckling over the Tribune tirade, King, its author, was busily at work doing his share of shearing.

He was industriously engaged in building the structure of financial flimsy that ultimately was to trip him up and send him sprawling into a cell, leaving Lawson victorious in the mad battle between two birds of the same alleged feather that refused to flock together.

OIL STOCKS

To S. L. H.—Buy the oils you name, if you are prepared to accept the evident risks that go with the oil business, and, if you are not, let them severely alone. The foundations appear to have been laid for another big oil market, even though the "$1 gasoline" predicted so long ago has failed to show up, even in what our nautical heroes used to call "the offing."

GOOD PREFERRED STOCKS.

To S. P. P.—There are numerous good preferred stocks selling to yield over 6 per cent. The writer confesses, speaking broadly, to a preference for some of those in the public utilities group.

GOOD BROKERS.

To D. E. E.—There are plenty of good brokers with whom to trade. It was not necessary for you to deal with "shaky" concerns, since you could have written us in advance for names enclosed herewith.

WEAK, RUN-DOWN NERVOUS, DIZZY

Mrs. Lee Suffered From All These Troubles, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well

Terre Haute, Indiana.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time and dizzy, had no appetite and could not sleep. I tried different medicines for a year but they did not help me. Then my husband saw the ad. for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and had me take it. I regained my strength and never felt better in my life. It completely restored me to health. I had practically no suffering when my baby boy was born and he is very strong and healthy. I know that the Vegetable Compound is the best medicine a woman can take before and after child birth for health and strength. I would be willing to answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. WM. J. LEE, Route E, Box 648, Terre Haute, Indiana.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are merely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

Danced for education's sake!

Whitney Hall, Brookline, was turned into an academic institution with the spirit of the arts pervading to complete a scholarship for a girl at a local college.

Lacking the necessary funds to perfect her Greek and Latin, the Women's Scholarship Association carries along one diligent student a year to enable her to obtain a sheepskin.

With Mrs. Harry Rogal of Brookline, chairman, the sixth annual dance was a huge success financially. The proceeds complete the fourth scholarship the organization has given—one at Radcliffe, one at Boston University and the third at Simmons. It is believed that Boston University will again be the recipient.

Mrs. William Mann, Mrs. Arthur Wilson and Mrs. Arnold Rosenfeldt assisted Mrs. Rogal.

ASKS AMERICAN TO FIND HIS SISTER

Miss Emily T. Barrett.

Jay M. Barrett of Wellsville, N. Y., has asked the Boston American to help him locate his sister, Miss Emily T. Barrett, who was last heard from in Boston in 1917.

It was fifteen years ago that Miss Barrett stopped corresponding with her brother, he says, and now he is anxious to get in touch with her again. From friends he heard she was in Boston in 1917. He asks her to write him or communicate with the American if she receives this message.

Miss Barrett has brown hair, gray eyes and is about five feet six inches tall. Mr. Barrett will appreciate any information that friends of the girl may send him.

DR. SOARES RAPS OLD ORDER OF THINGS

The old religion, the old social program, the old way to train children in righteousness, the old understanding of God—all are tedious and commonplace, according to Dr. Theodore G. Soares of Chicago who is conducting chapel services at Harvard this week.

Dr. Soares spoke on "The Significance of the Fosdick Controversy," at a private meeting in Peabody Hall. In his talk he outlined a program for a new religion, social work and religious training of children.

Shoes to Match

Various Items From a Convention in Mechanics Building

Interesting news comes from the annual convention of retailers in shoes, in Mechanics Building.

Gentlemen are advised that May 15 is hereafter to be observed as Summer Shoe Day. On that day the young man of fashion will shift to thin-soled, skeleton-lined footgear.

Miss Mary Bendelari brought to the shoe convention the latest news of Paris, more particularly about what the well dressed woman will wear.

In the French capital this Summer olive and leaf green will be worn. Designers have hit upon these shades to be used in combination with sand-colored fabric footwear and hosiery to match.

The French woman, Miss Mary Bendelari says, has got away from black almost completely. This Summer she will also wear gray and beige, a tan with almost no color, and greize, described as "beige soiled, a more sophisticated shade of it."

We followed Miss Mary Bendelari, a Cleveland girl who is now a designer in Paris, until she observed that the French woman is "better dressed than her sisters."

If by the French woman's "sisters," Miss Mary means American women, we beg leave to differ. It isn't true. It MAY be true as to Cleveland, Ohio, but if Mary will take a walk through Fifth Avenue and along Boylston and lower Tremont Streets, she will, as the old "personal" advertisements used to say, "learn something to her advantage."

J. Sherwood Smith, director of the trade service department of Harper's Bazar, told the shoemen a number of things which will help Father to understand why the girls' charge accounts tell of shoe purchases every week or two when he KNOWS there are shoes enough in the house to stock a second-hand store with.

"The well dressed American woman today," Sherwood Smith said, "buys a new pair of shoes for practically every new costume.

"This means the sale of a large number of shoes to each individual and in that sense it should mean INCREASED PRODUCTION, GREATER RESALE, AND GREATER PROFITS IN SHOES."

Neither Sherwood Smith nor any other man can make New England angry by calling for more shoes. This is where they grow.

And, as a matter of fact, the convention found the shoemen not only hopeful but confident.

The shoe business is improving, every day.

"Put 'Em Up!"

That's What the Boy Bandits Say, Now the Courts Are Saying Things to the Boy Bandits

The young man with an impulse to get himself a gun, walk into a shop and command a clerk to "Stick 'em up!" will do well to contemplate the brief career in banditry of Edwin T. McDonald.

McDonald is 21 years old. His parents live in Dorchester. On the night of January 8th he held up first a cigar store and then a gasoline station. His takings amounted to $196. He was caught in the act at the gas station.

On Tuesday, the "boy bandit" was sentenced to not less than 25 or more than 40 years' imprisonment in the State Prison at Charlestown

Forty years is a long time, a stiff price to pay for a few hours' excitement.

There is only one question to ask boys of Edwin McDonald's type. Religion means no more than Santa Claus to them, hell is a good joke and Providence the name of a city in Rhode Island.

You might just as well expect a monkey to listen to a few remarks on table manners as to hope that a boy like this will be thoughtful of father, mother, sisters, brothers.

But, DOES IT PAY?

There is one question they can ask THEMSELVES.

DOES crime, does the so-called "easy way," pay for the risk and the danger?

It certainly did not pay in the case of Edwin McDonald, and the fate which so quickly overtook him is the fate of nine out of ten young fools who adopt the same methods, ESPECIALLY THE AMATEURS.

Does it pay?

McDonald heard the answer on Tuesday.

He will be thinking it over for many years.

Sleeping in Churches

That's Not the Right Remedy

Mr. Urban L. Ledoux has a theory. He says that churches which pay no taxes should bear in mind the text, "The birds have nests, the foxes have holes, but the Son of Man has not where to lay His head."

He says also, that in the cold Winter the churches should be heated and opened as refuges for the homeless.

He recently carried out his theory to the extent of camping with a crowd of "homeless unemployed" in one church.

Churches, however, are not equipped to be used as hotels. Those that pay for pews in the daytime on Sunday are somewhat interested in the character and cleanliness of those that might SLEEP in the pews during the week.

While it is probable that the founder of Christianity would consider the shivering vagrant more important than the comfortable pew owner, we are living in 1925 a long distance from Galilee.

The work of the Church and of the preachers should be NOT to make lodging houses of churches, but to awaken the rich and prosperous to a realization of their duties, and to preach the truth that the richest country in the world should have no man unemployed, cold or homeless, if he is willing to work for a living.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

CONSCIENCE is that tiny monitor within you, which, like the bird in the cuckoo clock, always appears at the psychological moment—and always startles you.

* * *

Like charm or a dimple, conscience cannot be accused. You are either born with it or without it.

* * *

Helen Rowland

A healthy conscience is sometimes an inconvenience—but a tickly conscience is a positive menace.

* * *

Most women suffer from an overworked conscience, and most men from an undernourished conscience.

* * *

"Conscience money" is that which a man spends on orchids for his wife after he has lost the rent money on a poker game, and which a woman saves on the table, after she has bought a foolish hat.

A "perfectly clear conscience" is what a man has left, after the headache has worn off, and he has confessed as little or as much to his wife, as he thinks she will find out, anyhow.

* * *

Somehow, a man never feels "the prick of conscience" until the bottle is empty, the game is over, or he is beginning to tire of the girl.

* * *

"Conscience" becomes a wonderful convenience, when a man suddenly finds himself "unworthy" of a woman who is beginning to bore him; or when a woman suddenly discovers that she ought to stay home with the children instead of going out to a dull dinner party.

* * *

Nothing deadens the conscience like an injured feeling. Justification is all a man is looking for in order to park his conscience, and go out with the boys for a good time. And a woman can't really enjoy having tea with an old flame unless she feels that her husband has "misunderstood" her.

* * *

A man's conscience works slowly, like home brew; but woman's conscience begins to bubble, even before she has discovered whether she is going to HAVE any "temptations" or not.

* * *

Sometimes, a woman likes to wear her conscience on her sleeve, like a mourning band. Next to a widow's veil, it is the most intriguing thing in the world.

* * *

A man often forgets or mislays his conscience. But, he can always go right back home and find it, when he needs it. His wife is usually right there, holding his conscience and his hat, waiting for him to get TIRED and "come home and be good."

* * *

Conscience is often a safeguard, sometimes a punishment—and always an alibi!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THERE are souls that are kin to the mountain peaks, passionless lofty, cold; dwelling afar where the thunder speaks, wreathed with the lightning's gold. These are the souls that had led mankind onward through war and strife, freed from the shackles that cramp and bind, up to the heights of life. There are souls that are kin to the wind-swept plains, kissed by the sun and rain, free from all touch of the world's dark stains, strangely exempt from pain. These are the spirits that proudly bear joy like a torch aflame; these are marchers, debonair, laughing at Earth's brief fame. There are souls akin to the singing sea, restless and fair and strange, symbols that speak of eternity, breathing of force and change. Souls like the sea as its billows move, ebb and return with the tide; still like the sea in their boundless love, fathomless, deep and wide.

Insufficient Food

Helping Hand Editor:

I am the mother of seven children, three boys 12, 6 and 2 and four girls, 10, 8, 5 years and one 7 months. My husband only works four days a week and my rent is $23 a month for four small rooms with no improvements at all. Could some kind reader give my boy of 6 a coat. He cannot go to school because he has no clothing suitable. He goes to Open Air school. My children are all under weight, as their food isn't sufficient for them, but God helping us we are just existing. I need clothes badly myself. I wear 42 size. All the children need underwear.

MRS. L. W.

Mother of Seven

Helping Hand Editor:

I am the mother of seven children, six girls, 10, 8, 6, 4, 2 and one years old, and a boy 12, who has been sick for the last six weeks. Is there any kind readers who has an old express wagon or kiddy car or doll carriage they would give to my little ones. They never had any of these things like other children and they would be so happy. And if anyone has clothes for my boy 12. He has none.

MRS. E. A. C.

We all need underwear and shoes; girls' sizes 13½, 12½, 1½, and boy's 8½. Please don't forget us because father is a sick man and doesn't make much. Hoping someone will help us, with many thanks. Needs Clothes for Job

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband has been out of work for four months. He gets a few hours' work now and then. He has no decent clothes to wear so he can look for a good job. If anyone has a suit to give away, pants 33, and an overcoat for a boy 13, shoes for boy size 1½, and a dress for myself, size 38 or 40, I will be so thankful. I have to go to the hospital once a week. I cannot work.

MRS. A. L.

Mother a Cripple

Will you please try and help me find any kind of work? I have tried hard but can't get it. I am [illegible]5, very active, married and have eight children from one to 16 years of age, and it's mighty hard to get them much while out of work. I understand shipping and packing, also painting rough carpenter work, and am a good handy man around property. I would be very grateful to anyone. PATRICK J.

PLEASURE OF GOING TO FIRES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE is a distinct pleasure in attending fires.

In fact, a fire has almost all the elements of a public amusement.

They are no good, they are purely destructive, and they are easily noisy.

Nothing can be of much value as an amusement that is of any benefit to anybody. A little boy once was asked what he wanted for Christmas. His reply was, "Oh, anything, just so it isn't useful." His young mind discerned the difference between usefulness and amusement.

When the bells ring and the horses gallop, and somebody is losing a fortune, and everybody turns out to see the show, what can be more fun than to stand on the sidewalk and see the engines go by, or occupy a safe place of vantage and see the building burn?

It is exciting. It is dangerous, and it is not only of no use, but it is distinctly a loss. There is no fire without destruction of property. Somebody has to pay the piper.

Perhaps down at the bottom of our hearts there is just a little pleasure that we all experience in seeing somebody else lose something. It is not a nice thing to say, about human nature, but it is, alas! too probable.

They tell a story about Nelson Morris. At one time a clerk came running into his office, and announced that there was a fire. Morris hastily put on his coat, crying out, "Where is it?" "Over at Swift's," was the reply. Hearing this, Morris took off his coat again, hung it up, and sat down, remarking, "It's too bad about them Swifts." We can bear the losses of other people with considerable philosophy, just as we can bear their pains.

Walter Pritchard Eaton, in his book, "The Actor's Heritage," quotes the leading man in Mlle. Rachel's company touring the United States in 1855 as saying, "The pleasure of extinguishing fires ranks first among amusements in the United States."

ANOTHER BIG COMET COMING---SOMETIME

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"Could you please tell me when there will be another of those great comets in the skies, like the one we saw here quite a few years ago—Halley's comet I believe it was. Everybody who saw it believed it was going to hit the earth. It would be great if everybody could see another one.—H. E. B., Providence."

IF I could make such a prediction I would deservedly have the reputation of a wizard. Even the astrologers, as far as I know, have not ventured upon predictions concerning great comets to come.

It would be a bad risk even for professional soothsayers. Of course, anyone can safely say: "There's going to be a big comet—some time."

History shows that they have come along at irregular intervals from time immemorial, but with the exception of the particular one that you refer to, Halley's, which last flamed in our skies in 1910, there is no truly "great" comet the period of whose return is positively known. Halley's will not be back earlier than about 1985. But there MAY be a bigger one long before that.

There are many small ones, however, most of which are never visible to the naked eye, that travel in more or less elongated orbits around the sun, in periods of a few years length and become visible to astronomers when their circuitous journey brings them back to the neighborhood of the sun and the earth.

Then, too, almost every year one or more apparently new comets of this minnow class are discovered flirting their little tails as they swing around the sun, on its vast voyage through space, but the great comet-whales make their appearance but rarely.

Among the big comets that have been seen there are a few, in addition to Halley's (which one surely has a closed orbit), that seem to be traveling in paths which must bring them back again in periods sometimes as long as many hundreds, or thousands, of years.

But the determination of the actual paths of these far-traveling comets is an exceedingly difficult and uncertain thing. If they move in ellipses they are sure to come back some time; but unfortunately, near the focal point, which is the sun, an elliptical curve may be almost indistinguishable from a parabola or a hyperbola, and if the comet is traveling in one of these two curves it can never come back.

I think with you that it would be great to see another big comet. Not including Halley's, I have seen four in my lifetime, but two of them I remember only as terrifying shapes of light in the sky that seemed to awe my elders, for I was but a boy.

These two comets came only a couple of years apart and, curiously enough, the other two that I have seen constituted a similar pair, their appearances being separated by about a year. They were the comets of 1881 and 1882, the latter being one of the most wonderful on record.

Nobody can behold one of these marvelous objects flaunting in the sky, so unlike anything else ever presented to human eyes, so calculated in all their appearances and circumstances to arouse dormant superstitions and call out unanswered questions, even in educated minds, without wondering whence they come, and whither they go when they disappear in the depths of space, like lessening sails sinking behind a far-off horizon.

Theer are still two theories about the nature of the association of these great comets with the sun. Halley's comet, with its long period of three-quarters of a century, seems to some a kind of link between the small, short-period comets which are known to be regular attendants of the sun, and the great comets for which only hypothetical orbits have been calculated because they have been seen but once.

According to this view all comets are really periodical, and consequently permanent members of the sun's family, even those which require thousands of years to make a single circuit. There are mathematical considerations which tend to support this view.

But, on the other hand, some astronomers believe that some, at least, of the great comets are entirely new visitors to the sun, having come when first seen, from out of the star depths, envoys as it were from some other sun; and when they move away from our sun, after their perihelion passage, they leave the solar system forever, to resume their wandering.

ONCE-OVERS

MAKING UP YOUR MIND IS THE FIRST STEP TOWARD SUCCESS

You wonder why you do not accomplish more?

Have you ever thought that it is because you have not thoroughly made up your mind how to accomplish?

You have to be sure in your own mind what you want to do before you can do it.

Merely wanting to do will not get you anywhere.

You must have a definite plan clearly worked out before you can make any headway.

If you are constantly trying to decide whether you should or should not do certain things to make your project a success, you are losing valuable time.

At least try out some plan definitely and to a finish.

To have a mind filled with dreams which constantly change with each contact from an outside influence is to put to naught all your previous work.

A poor plan, well carried out, will bring success where the fine and even brilliant idea, not kept long enough to test its efficiency, is worse than nothing, because it weakens character.
